ALL EUROPE AWAITING OUTCOME OF THE GERMANY-JAPAN AFFAIR

Ultimatum Expires Tomorrow With Germany Apparently Determined to Stand Her Ground and Japan Fully Prepared to Wage War in Orient.

London, August 21.—With the Germans bombarding the forts of Namur and large forces of their troops continuing to move westward a contact must soon be joined with the main allied forces. The German army then for the first time will find itself facing its chief opponents and a great battle, which must have an enormous effect on the future of the war, will probably ebb and flow for several days before a decision is reached.

The front of the German fighting line may extend far to the westward if the suggestion is well founded that the right wing of the Emperor's battalions is carrying a great circling movement with a view of breaking into France further to the south.

According to French official reports victories gained by the French troops have opened the way to Colmar, capital of Upper Alsace. Seven thousand Austrians are reported to have arrived at Strassburg for the defense of that fortress.

Both Germany and Austria-Hungary have called the Landsturm, their last reserve of troops, to the colors.

If the news of a great Serbian victory, which comes from many sources, be true Austria-Hungary, which must be reeling under the smashing blow delivered by her small adversary, will need every available man.

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 22.—The German advance into Belgium is going on today apparently without serious check. Having taken Brussels the troops of Emperor William are forcing their way steadily and rapidly to the north and west. They have occupied Ghent and are approaching Bruges and Ostend. They would appear to be endeavoring to overrun the whole northern and western Belgium. At the same time they would seem to be drawing closer to the French frontier. Southeast of Brussels they are investing the fortified city of Namur on the Meuse.

It is reported from Antwerp that the Germans will not continue to occupy Brussels, contenting themselves merely with marching through the city. This determination, however, may be altered by the attitude of the city treasurer of Brussels who is quoted as saying he will never pay over $40,000,000 demanded by the Germans as a war tax.

The concentration of the Belgian army before Antwerp is said to have been accomplished in good order and the morale of the Belgian troops is reported to be unimpaired.

While German patrols are close to Antwerp no strong detachments have been reported yet near the city. Whether or not the Germans will attempt to capture Antwerp or simply invest it is not clear.

A Paris newspaper declared today that general mobilization in Italy has been decided upon and will be proclaimed in three or four days.

St. Petersburg announces officially that the Russian army is advancing along the entire Austrian-German frontier and that at the same time is successfully maintaining the offensive at every point of contact with the enemy.

A reported cavalry engagement of the northern Russian army Friday is described as a severe blow to the Germans in east Prussia. It is said an entire German battery was captured in this engagement. Russian aviators are reported throwing bombs on the German intrenchments.

Further accounts of the reported Serbian victory over the Austrians say the fighting lasted three days along the Drina river. The Austrian casualties were given as between 20,000 and 25,000, while it is said 10,000 prisoners were taken. The Serbian artillery did effective work against the enemy. Nish declares officially that a part of the Serbian army has invaded Bosnia and that another great battle is expected in the near future.

The time limit of the Japanese ultimatum to Germany demanding the surrender of the German holding at Kaio Chow expires tomorrow and Japan is described as fully ready to proceed against the German position. A dispatch from Tokio says that the German ambassador to Japan will sail for Seattle, August 26, and that a number of German officials have already left Tokio. The news of the German occupation of Brussels has been posted in Berlin.

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 22.—A dispatch to Reuters Agency from St. Petersburg sent under today's date says: "After a brilliant Serbian victory at Matschwa, the Austrians fled toward the bridges of the Drina pursued by the Servians who captured rich booty and a large number of prisoners, including officers. They took 40 guns, most of them howitzers, horses, ammunition and field hospital and military kitchens, which were abandoned by the Austrians in their flight."

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 22.—A Reuter dispatch has this account of the present situation at Liege: "The firing of a shot from a private house in Liege yesterday was the signal for widespread bombardment and arson on the part of the German army of occupation."

The Maastricht correspondent says: "The situation of the population of Liege became extremely perilous immediately the shot was fired the Germans opened up with their machine guns destroying 20 houses and killing the inmates of ten other houses. In addition to the war tribute of $10,000,000, levied on the province, the city of Liege has been mulcted of an additional $42,000,000, the German army administration having seized this amount in private banks."

By Associated Press.

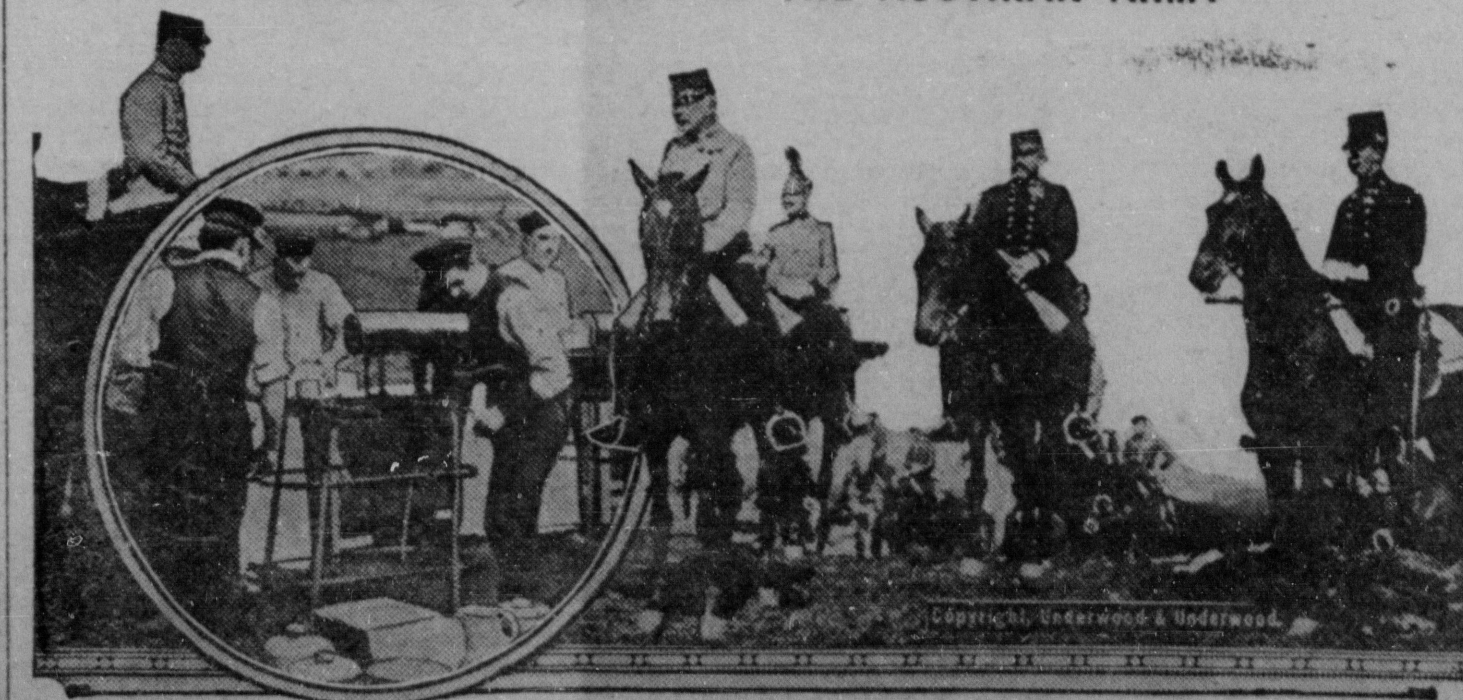

Washington, Aug. 22.—Baron Chinda asks Secretary Bryan to transmit through the American Embassy at Berlin a message to the Japanese charge de affairs giving him instructions in detail as to the course he is to pursue if no answer is returned by Germany to the Japanese ultimatum.

Secretary Bryan said today that his communication to Japan reaffirming the open door policy of the United States in the far east had gone forward through the American embassy in Tokio two days ago. Senators of the Foreign Relations Committee said no action would be taken on Senator Gallinger's resolution to that effect without consulting the state department.

EXECUTE THE INHABITANTS

Washington, Aug. 22.—The Japanese government instructed its charge de affairs in Berlin to leave there at 4 p. m., tomorrow, Berlin time, if an answer was not returned then by Germany to the Japanese ultimatum.

Paris, Aug. 22.—A general mobilization in Italy has been decided upon and will be proclaimed in a few days according to a message the Rome correspondent of the Eclair succeeded in smuggling through to his paper.

London, Aug. 22.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from St. Petersburg says "It is officially announced that the Russian army is now advancing along the entire Russo-German frontier and successfully maintaining the offensive at every point of contact."

CARDINALS TAKE OATH TO PRESERVE SECRETS

By Associated Press.

Rome, August 22.—The body of Pope Pius X, clad in his pontifical robes and with the emblems of his sacred office beside it, lay today in the chapel of the Blessed Sacrament in St. Peter's. The doors of the great church were opened and the faithful resumed their pilgrimages to the bier. Preparations for the burial are now under way.

The stairway leading to the crypt under the altar, where the remains of St. Peter lie, has been covered with heavy boards. Down these the bier will be lowered gently until it is finally deposited near the casket of Pope Pius VI. Three hundred invitations have been issued for the ceremonies of entombing. Among those present will be members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the Italian nobility. The troops were withdrawn from the square of St. Peter's this afternoon.

Rome, August 22.—Twenty-three cardinals met today in the first congregation of cardinals to arrange the temporary government of the church and prepare for the conclave in September, when a successor to Pope Pius X will be elected.

After taking the oath to maintain secret their discussion "even to the shedding of blood", the cardinals performed the traditional ceremony of breaking the fisherman's ring. The rite, however, was not literally carried out. It was learned today that the late Pope's will provides for the maintenance of about 400 little children made orphans by the earthquake at Messina in 1908.

ARMY OF JAPS IS ENROUTE

By Associated Press.

Shanghai, China, Aug. 22.—According to information obtained today from an official but not Japanese source, the tenth division of the Japanese army, consisting of 16,000 men, went on board transports at Kokura last Friday. Furthermore a Japanese battleship fleet, including the super-dreadnaught Kongon, has sailed to bombard Tsing Tau, the seaport of Kaio Chow, and cover the landing of the first Japanese forces of occupation.

20,000 DIE

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 22.—Official sources confirm the report that the Austrians lost 20,000 men in three days fighting on the river Drina and that General Leman, the Belgian commander of the forts at Liege, is a prisoner of the Germans and enroute for Cologne.

RACER KILLED UNDER AUTO

Elgin, Ill., August 22.—Spencer Wishart was badly injured by the overturning of his car in the automobile races here today, and died at a hospital shortly after. Andrew C. Kollman, Wishart's mechanic, also was injured. The car turned turtle at Station No. 3 and both men were pinned under it. Wishart was in the lead at the time of the accident. His car crashed into a fence. Three spectators were reported slightly hurt when Wishart's car hit the fence near which were their seats.

Wishart's wife was at the races today when he was killed. She formerly was an Indianapolis society girl. Wishart was considered wealthy.

DEPALMA WINS.

Elgin, Ill., August 22.—The auto race was won by Ralph Depalma. His time was 73.5 miles per hour. Pullen finished second.

AUSTRIANS MEET WITH DISASTER

London, August 22.—Reports from St. Petersburg say the Russian advance on Austria and Germany is without interruption. A big cavalry engagement on Friday was a severe blow to the Germans in East Prussia. An entire German battery was captured. Aviators are throwing bombs on German buildings and intrenchments. The Russians captured 60 guns. The same report says that the Austrians in Galicia have been badly defeated. Six officers and 1250 men were taken prisoner.

London, Aug. 22.—According to the latest reports the Germans are overrunning north Belgium and are within a few miles of Ostend. The report also says that 50,000 Germans who marched through Brussels are now in Ghent. The English consul at Ostend has advised all the English to leave that place, and most of them have departed.

The Germans occupied Brussels without firing a shot. Cavalrymen took possession of the city Thursday and held it until the German hussars and Uhlans arrived outside the gates, where they were met by the burgo-master. Many residents of the town fled toward Ostend.

Antwerp has been placed in a state of siege and all foreigners have been asked to leave as soon as possible. King Albert and the general staff are in the city, the forts are manned and the civil guard has been directed to act under orders of the military. The forts are being made ready for a vigorous defense. It is stated that the original plans are to be carried out, which called for the flooding of certain sections of the approaches to

How Opposing Forces Are Arrayed Outside Brussels.

ANTWERP WILL FIGHT IT OUT

Antwerp, Aug. 22.—A city cut off from her country by a great hostile force, Antwerp is gathering her resources and preparing to make history. Every moment that passes brings rumors of the approach of a German army close at the heels of the Belgians who held off the Kaiser's troops for fifteen days at Liege, Tirlemont, Louvain and many other points while the French were rushing to the border and the fate of France seemed to tremble in the balance.

There is no longer any doubt that the military chiefs believe that sooner or later Antwerp must stand for a siege, for the work of preparing the city for a tremendous resistance by land and sea is progressing at wonderful speed.

So far as is known, the main Belgian army when it retired from Brussels fell back upon Malines, the lace city. Fighting was reported there, and it is believed that Malines has fallen.

GENERAL LEMAN IS PRISONER OF WAR

London, Aug. 22.—A supposedly official message from Berlin, which has reached here by wireless, ridicules the stories emanating from Belgian sources that General Leman, the Belgian commander, escaped from the forts at Liege. The message says that General Leman is now a prisoner of war at Cologne.

Information has reached Ostend from Brussels that the Liege forts were still holding out on Aug. 18 and that the coal mines in the neighborhood were working, the miners being allowed to pass to and fro from their homes without molestation. Trains reaching Ostend are crowded with refugees, some of whom escaped from the battle line at Louvain.

GIVE GERMANS HOT RECEPTION

Paris, Aug. 22.—The battles around Muelhausen have been particularly bloody for the Germans, who, knowing the French would spare as much as possible the Alsations and their property, hid themselves in houses protected by the Red Cross, whence they fired on the French. The French directed a violent rifle and artillery fire on their assailants, causing great carnage. Every German leaving these houses was shot down. A battery of six guns with their caissons filled with ammunition were captured from the Germans. They were taken to Belfort, where crowds of curious townspeople gathered to see them.

ENORMOUS LOSS

Rome, Aug. 22.—The newspapers print the following dispatch, dated Nish, Serbia, Aug. 21: "The general staff announces the complete victory of the Serbs in a four days' battle near Losnitza. Austrians to the number of 150,000 fought an equal number of Serbs. The losses on both sides were enormous. The victors captured great booty and several thousand prisoners."

CARDINALS TO TACKLE BIG GAME

Some Expression Expected From the Conclave.

Rome, Aug. 22.—The body of Pope Plus X. was removed from the throne room of the vatican to the chapel of the sacrament at St. Peter's, where it will lie in state until the final ceremonies, which end with the interment in the crypt of the great cathedral.

In accordance with the wishes of the pope expressed in his last days, the three days lying in state in the throne room was dispensed with. That was a ceremony simply for the benefit of the nobles of the church and of the state. Such things had always been most distasteful to the man who never forgot that he was born a peasant.

The burial of the pope will be absolutely private.

Saddened as everything is by the death of the church's head, it has not interfered with preparations for the conclave of cardinals which is to choose the new pope. Cardinal Della Volpe, the cardinal chamberlain, who is the temporary head of the church, has the most delicate task in providing for it. The next pope is almost certain to be an Italian.

Undoubtedly some expression will come from the conclave concerning the European war. It is conceded to be the duty of the church to express itself, but the form which it is to take will have to be most carefully considered for fear of causing a most embarrassing situation.

SAIL FOR ROME

New York, Aug. 22.—The White Star liner Canopic, from Boston to Naples, touched in at New York for a few hours to take on board Cardinal Gibbons. Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, was already on the Canopic. The two American cardinals will reach Rome about Sept. 1. Cardinal O'Connell said, and that the conclave for the election of the next pope had been tentatively set for Sept. 3.

SHOEMAKING IN AMERICA.

Massachusetts Now Turns Out Nearly Half the World's Product.

Thomas Beard, arriving by the Mayflower in 1629, was the first shoemaker to come from England to America. He settled at Salem, Mass.

More than $250,000,000 is now invested in American shoemaking and more than 200,000 wage earners are employed.

Before 1850 practically every shoemaking process was a hand process. Lynn, Mass., with over 100 factories, is the leading shoe city of the world.

Of the world's boots and shoes more than 47 per cent are made in Massachusetts.

John Brooks Nichols of Lynn adapted the Howe sewing machine to sew the uppers of shoes in 1851, and this was the first important step in the application of machinery to shoemaking.

William F. Trowbridge at Feltonville, now a part of Marlborough, Mass., applied horsepower to the shoemaking machinery of 1855. Steam and water power came later.

The poet Whittier was a shoemaker in his youth. Henry Wilson, eighteenth vice president of the United States, was "the Natick cobbler" and was always proud of his shoemaking days.

Ebenezer Breed of Lynn is credited with securing by personal influence the first protective tariff on shoes. He was a merchant of Revolutionary times.

August Destouy, a New York mechanic, invented in 1862 the first curved needle to sew turn shoes.—From "A Primer of Boots and Shoes," Compiled by Daniel S. Knowlton.

The Myrtle Warbler.

The myrtle warbler breeds in the northern and eastern parts of the United States, but migrates through every woodland path and is so numerous that it is familiar to every observer. More than three-fourths of its food consists of insects, practically all of which are harmful. The bird is small, nimble and successfully attacks insects too minute to be prey for larger birds. These insects are its chief items of food.

Every day has its advertising opportunities and every merchant should know the opportunity when it comes to him.

Unwarranted Burdens

It is reported by leading newspapers that sugar has gone to ten cents per pound. This is a pretty high price to pay for sugar when we feel that there is no honest cause for it.

If the American people felt that the rise had been due to the law of supply and demand they could most certainly bear the burden with a great deal more cheer, but feeling as we do that a few men, who have the money, opportunity and unholy audacity to control the price of sugar are filling their own coffers at the expense of the needy and unfortunate, makes us somewhat restive. We readily realize that we must help bear the burden of the war in Europe as well as the rest of the world—we must help pay the debt sooner or later, but there is certainly no just cause for such an early beginning. We have just as much sugar at our disposal as we had before the war began and it is the belief of the entire American people that any advance in the price of food stuff has been made arbitrarily and without warrant. The men who have accomplished this would hardly be guilty of taking a pistol and stopping their neighbors on the street and relieving them of their hard-earned cash. They have been taught better; 300 to 500 years ago their ancestors would perhaps have done so with very little condemnation from the community. Brigandy was once a fairly honorable profession—speculation in food stuff at the expense of the poor, is at the present time respectable, especially as long as the man can keep out of jail and get the money. But it does seem there is not a great deal of difference between the man who uses the power of money to rob his neighbor and the man who takes his substance by force of firearms. The good substantial men of the United States are desperately afraid of socialism, but the highly organized state of our society and the interdependency of each upon the other, and one community and one section upon the other, is making it necessary that the control of the necessities of life, as well as the comforts and even luxuries, should not be left within the hands of a few to dispense at their pleasure to those who must have them. We do not want socialism as we understand it, but it does not take a very keen discernment to see that the people are not going to stand for the present method of distributing the produce of their own toil. They will change the system. The railroads of the United States imposed upon the people year after year and, it is said, ruled our State Legislature and had even a mighty influence in our National Congress, but the time came when public sentiment started an opposition to the railroad's domination and we see already how far within the last ten or twelve years they have swung the pendulum in the opposite direction. Presidents of railroads no longer publicly curse the people, but with uplifted palms are asking that they be granted a square deal. It is the story of the "unjust steward." The people will remedy the present autocratic power of the money barons and how far they will swing the pendulum in the other direction no one at the present day is able to foretell, but it is coming sure.

War Getting to Be Impossible; Too Terrible to Last Long

By Rev. JOHN POLLOCK, Pastor St. Enoch's Church, Belfast, Ireland

CERTAINLY the map of Europe will be changed as a result of war. Just how it is impossible to foretell. "I AM SURE IT WILL BE THE LAST GREAT WAR. War is getting to be an impossibility. The instruments of war have reached such a state of efficiency that nearly all the men of both armies—victor and vanquished—will be killed in the battle.

THIS WAR, AS YOUR GENERAL MILES PROPHESED, WILL BE THE LAST FOR ANOTHER, A BIGGER REASON. IT WILL BE SO TERRIBLE, SO HORRIBLE, SO AWFUL THAT THE WORLD'S CONSCIENCE WILL BE ROUSED TO A POINT THAT WILL NEVER PERMIT ITS REPETITION OR ANYTHING LIKE IT. ONE HAS ONLY TO TAKE A CASUAL SURVEY OF THE PROBABILITIES TO REALIZE HOW AWFUL IT WILL BE. ENGLAND'S MILLIONS MAY STARVE BECAUSE HER FOOD SUPPLY MAY BE SHUT OFF. SHE CANNOT FEED HERSELF. HER FACILITIES UNDER BLOCKADE MAY LAST ONLY A WEEK; CERTAINLY NOT MORE THAN A MONTH.

World's workers will be killed in numbers never before conceived of in warfare; business must suspend; property will be devastated, and so the horrors will pile up. And what will the war be about? There is practically nothing for any country to gain. It is simply a question of racial jealousies finding expression. I BELIEVE THE WAR WILL BE TOO TERRIBLE TO LAST LONG, though as to actual time I could not hazard even a guess.

Poetry For Today

ACROSS THE SEA.

Across the sea I heard the groans
Of nations in the intervals
Of wind and wave. Their blood and bones
Cried out in torture, crushed by
thrones,
And sucked by priestly cannibals.

I dreamed of Freedom slowly gained
By martyr meekness, patience,
faith,
And lo, an athlete grimly stained,
With corded muscles battle-stained,
Shouting it on the fields of death.

I turn me, awe-struck, from the sight,
Among the clamoring thousands
mute;
I only know that God is right,
And that the children of the light
Shall tread the darkness under foot

I know the pent fire heaves its crust,
That sultry skies the bolt will form
To smite them clear; that Nature
must
The balance of her powers adjust,
Though with the earthquake and
the storm.

God reigns, and let the earth rejoice!
I bow before His sterner plan.
Dumb are the organs of my choice;
He speaks in battle's stormy voice,
His praise is in the wrath of man.

Yet, surely as He lives, the day
Of peace He promised shall be ours,
To fold the flags of war, and lay
Its sword and spear to rust away.
And sow its ghastly fields with flowers.

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

NOTHING IS SUDDEN.

Events Seem So Only Because We Do Not Foresee Them.

The mind is often said to be illuminated by a sudden idea or the will to come to a sudden resolution. The suddenness is not only apparent to the on-looker; it is felt by the subject himself, when light seems to flash into his mind or his will to determine itself on an instant. He may talk of inspiration, meaning the unrelated act of some power outside himself. Just so we talk of the suddenness of lightning, the suddenness of an earthquake. We imagine earthquakes and lightning flashes as unrelated, independent happenings, and forget that every earthquake and every flash of lightning is the manifestation of an immutable and slowly working law and could, had men but knowledge enough, have been foretold from the ages.

Things are sudden only because we do not foresee them, and their suddenness is no inherent quality in themselves; it is lent them by our ignorance. The striking of a match may be as sudden as a flash of lightning and the fall of a pin as sudden as a pistol shot, but in normal conditions they do not make us "jump," because the conditions are the state of our nerves and the relative force of the impact upon our senses. A camel falls suddenly under the last straw, but it is the previous slow piling of all the other straws that is the cause of his broken back. Nothing is, in reality, more sudden than anything else; it is from ourselves, from our lack of comprehension and preparation, that the lightning, the earthquake and the pistol shot borrow their suddenness.—London Times.

WHEN ARABS WED

Quaint Ceremonies Mark the Long Drawn Out Festivities.

WEEKS OF FEAST AND FUN.

And at the End the Bridegroom, if He Be Lucky, Escapes Without Having Received a Beating at the Hands of the Friends He Has Entertained.

Arab weddings begin on Monday—that is to say, the first preparation commences on that day, when the bridegroom sends to the house of the bride the canopy under which she will walk in state on the following Thursday to his home. Along with this, if he is rich, he sends her a sack full of leaves of the henna plant, so much in use among the Arab women for toilet purposes; also two or three lambs, much oil and grain—in fact, everything necessary for the marriage feast for the women, which takes place in the bride's house. Musicians playing the tautom and the zummara (pipes) accompany the gifts.

Then a quaint ceremony takes place. The bride, covered with a rich silk barracan, and held by two women attendants, who grasp her firmly on either side of the waist, advances stiffly and solemnly, preceded by a third, who walks backward, holding a looking glass in front of the bride's face so that she must gaze into it as she walks. When she reaches the sack of henna, still with the utmost solemnity she sits down upon it seven times in succession to bring good fortune to her future home. This is a very ancient custom, never omitted on the Monday.

On Tuesday, the henna leaves having been crushed by the women, the paste is put on the head of the bride and a little on her hands. Then she remains seated while her women and girl friends gather round her. Each in turn places her hand on the bride's head, extolling her many virtues, saying how charitable she has been, how generous, that she has given oil and bread and clothes to the poor, etc. Whether true or not is of the least importance.

On Wednesday evening her hands are covered with henna, the whole of the palms and the back of the hand as far as the knuckles, so that they look almost black. The feet are treated in the same way, the whole of the soles, and the rest of the foot in the shape of a shoe.

Thursday is the great day. Now, after these ceremonies, after all sorts of preparations and much feasting with her friends, the actual marriage day arrives. In the morning the bride is perfumed with rich, strange oriental scents. At 6 o'clock in the evening she is taken in procession under the canopy to the house of the bridegroom.

Before entering the room where she will be attired for the marriage she stops outside the door to throw and break an egg against the top of the lintel. As soon as she gets inside the room she breaks a jar of water, both old customs, to bring good luck. The women dress her in fine silk clothes, with many gold ornaments and a rich silk barracan, all provided by the bridegroom. As a matter of fact, only two or three of the rich gold bracelets and so on are given, the rest being hired by the bridegroom for the occasion.

The bride is then left seated in the room covered with a great piece of silk or cloth all over her and hiding her entirely from view. By this time her women and girl friends have all arrived and are feasting and rejoicing in one of the rooms. Now the bridegroom, who in the meantime has been to prayer in the mosque, comes to his house, accompanied by all his friends, singing and making merry.

They all go into a separate room to feast, leaving the happy man to enter alone into the room where his shrouded wife awaits him. Each places a piece of sugar between the lips of the other as a symbol of the sweetness of the married life which lies before them, and the bridegroom offers his bride a gift of jewelry or gold coins. The guests remain till late in the night, very often till the next morning. Endless feasting and music entertain them, for the Arabs have an extraordinary capacity for enjoying both for hours and hours at a time.

For seven days afterward the bride, richly dressed, receives innumerable visits from her friends. Really this is the time of her life, and she makes the most of it. On the seventh day she offers them all yet once again a great feast. After another forty days they come once more to eat at her house. Then the wedding festivities are really at an end.

All these customs are in vogue also among the Bedouin Arabs, but they have others. For instance, the Bedouin bridegroom for seven days after the wedding enjoys himself, wandering through the gardens of the oasis, doing no work, always accompanied by a group of his friends. But on the seventh day he must keep a sharp lookout, for on that day his friends will try suddenly to play a trick on him. If he escapes them well and good. Then he can run to his house and be safe. If not, they snatch his clothes from him and beat him, which seems a poor return for the feasting and entertainment. But it is the custom. These people will not omit the smallest ceremony handed down to them by their forefathers. —"The New Tripoli, and What I Saw in the Hinterland," by Ethel Braun.

A TRIP INTO SPACE.

With a Peep at the Milky Way and Its Fiery Spiral Nebula.

If you could stand still and let the world glide from under you the most impressive characteristic of space would be its emptiness, its awful black silence, of which man knows about as much as the deep sea fish do of their ocean. As the sun went sailing away its planets would close in one by one until apparently consumed by the solar rays. Before you had passed through the orbit of Neptune the sun would look no larger than an arc light. Fainter and fainter, deprived bit by bit of its dominance, it would finally fade into a pitiful spark. In spite of your tenfold efforts to keep that glinting point clear of its fellows, it would at last melt into the multitude of soft lights that make up the Milky way, and henceforth, seek as you might, you could never distinguish your sun again. Lost in the Milky way, it would be as futile to try to find it as to find a certain grain of dust which you had noticed settling on a country road.

Then drifting spitlike out into inky nothingness you would be surrounded by myriads of brilliant lights. Soon they would impress you with this startling fact: The universe of stars is arranged like a mighty world. The Milky way encircles the skies very much as the equator does this earth, and since life is most abundant in the south so the stars grow thickest about the Milky way. Let the eye travel away toward the imaginary north and south poles, and not only do the stars thin out, but entirely new forms of star life make their appearance.

Through the telescope they are nothing more than filmy patches of light; to the cameras and spectroscopes of observatories they become the most amazing and frightful spectacles of all nature. They show themselves to be stupendous whirlpools of fire, inconceivable in magnitude, thousands of "light years" away (light traveling 185,000 miles a second), where whole systems of suns are being slowly evolved. We call them "spiral nebula," but to describe them we need the tongue of God himself. They seem to be measureless cauldrons, where his hand stirs cosmic dust until new suns rise and float off in flaming bubbles. They are so unthinkably gigantic that there is no perceptible motion to them. Already the cameras have recorded several hundred thousand in every stage of condensation, presenting an undeniable challenge, perhaps an answer, to those who would solve the riddle of the universe.—Maxwell Parry in Chicago Herald.

Ships and Waves.

When the waves of the ocean are one-half the length of the ship and one-twentieth of the length in height the stress upon the ship itself is very little increased above that in smooth water. But when the waves are of the same length as the ship or one and one-half times its length the stresses are considerable higher than when the ship is in smooth water; hence, in view of the fact that waves are seldom over 500 feet long, the maximum bending moments which come upon a ship 500 feet long are much less than those which come upon one 500 feet long.—Chicago News.

Improving the Milk's Quality.

A certain Glasgow milkman was suspected of using the pump handle rather too much before starting out with his milk delivery. The other day as he was standing serving customers in a busy side street a man passing nudged him and whispered: "Look out; the sanitary inspector is coming round the corner." Turning off the crank, he rushed for his cream barrel and, filling a huge can from it, opened the milk can and emptied it in. The "sanitary" did not come, but the wife of the "tipster" got a splendid supply of rich creamy milk that morning.—London Tatler.

Giving Proper Credit.

Two Philadelphians were talking of the fortunes of a third denizen of that city when one said:

"His first lucky strike was in eggs. He bought 10,000 dozen at a low figure, put them in cold storage and sold them at a profit of more than 300 per cent. That was the cornerstone of his great fortune."

"Ah!" exclaimed the other. "Then the hens laid it!"—Harper's Magazine.

LEVY PLANNED TO BUILD FAYETTE ROADS

Special Levy of Two Mills For Five Years Would Bring in $400,000 for Road Building.

COMMISSIONERS TO CALL AN ELECTION

Question of Raising Funds for Rebuilding Fayette's Disappearing Highways is to be Submitted to Voters Unless Present Plans are Changed.

Unless present plans are changed, the County Commissioners, Harry F. Brown, Edwin Weaver and Louis Perrill, will soon adopt a resolution calling an election to vote upon the question of issuing several hundred thousand dollars in bonds, or to decide the question of levying a special assessment for the improvement of the highways of Fayette county.

Their determination has been reached after appeals from many citizens for radical improvement of the county's highways, and it is planned to submit the question to a vote of the people at the regular election this fall, and if the voters favor the levying of a special tax of about 2 mills, this will be done, and the amount raised each year for a period of perhaps five years, would reach $80,000

yearly, or about $400,000 for the five years, and divide the levy so that it would not work an exceptional hardship upon the taxpayers.

Many appeals for relief have been made to the commissioners, as it has become more and more evident that, with the constant wear and tear upon the pikes they were giving way at a much greater rate than the improvements have been building them up, and each winter has witnessed a worse condition of the pikes than the preceding year.

Efforts to keep the pikes repaired as rapidly as they have been deteriorating have proven of no avail, and those who have been keeping a close watch on the rapidly disappearing good roads in Fayette county have reached the conclusion that something must be done at once, and that heavy expense is necessary to lift Fayette county out of the mud that is becoming more and more a drawback to Fayette roads.

After discussing the conditions, and going into them thoroughly, the commissioners have decided that some action is necessary, and within a short time a resolution calling for an election on the question of road improvement, probably will be passed and the question will then go to the voters of the county for their approval or rejection.

In view of the highway conditions, it is more than probable that the voters will not look with disfavor upon the proposition.

GENERAL EXODUS FOLLOWS FAIR END

With the end of the annual fair, the midway attractions and privilege men generally, joined the horsemen in moving to some other fair grounds.

Wagons were kept busy removing the baggage to the various depots, and many of the midway attractions found the fair very unprofitable this week, owing to the rain scattering the crowds Thursday afternoon and preventing the usual attendance Friday.

CONFERENCE PLANS NOW WELL UNDER WAY

Rev. F. E. Ross was in Columbus Friday, conferring with Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkled, Dr. W. D. Cherington, of the Chillicothe district; Dr. A. H. Norcross, of the Zanesville district; Dr. J. C. Arbuckle, of the Lancaster district; Dr. A. M. Mann, Marietta district; Dr. McGhee, Portsmouth district, and Dr. Courtney, of the Columbus district, to complete plans for the 102nd annual session of the Ohio M. E. Conference which will open in Grace church September 16th.

The program will be in the hands of the printer within a few days, and final arrangements will be completed within a short time.

A number of the most eminent men in Methodism will be in attendance at the conference. Bishop Thirkled will preside over the conference.

IMMENSE CROWD ENJOYS THE CONCERT

The Washington band was greeted by a crowd of several thousand persons when an open air concert was given on the court house lawn Friday night, and time after time the large crowd applauded the splendid music rendered.

A number of new pieces rendered met with the hearty approval of the big crowd, and the old time favorites were heartily applauded.

Ralph Ott, the whistler, again pleased the audience with his clever work.

WORK ON BRIDGES WELL UNDER WAY

BEST RACING WAS THAT OF FAIR OF YESTERDAY

Crowd Delighted With the Sport Which Included Part of Thursday's Program—Dangerous Spill Occurs in Fourth Heat of 2:12 Pace, But Drivers and Horses Escape Without Serious Injuries.

The best racing at the local fair occurred Friday afternoon, and although the crowd was materially reduced by the rains of Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, yet a large number witnessed the sport.

The track was in good condition, with the exception of small patches, which were infrequently used.

The Thursday afternoon card carried over was completed in good time, with weather conditions almost ideal.

A sensational spill occurred in the fourth heat of the 2:12 pace when the racers were dashing down the back stretch, Teddy Strathmore stepping into the wheel of the Minnie Burns bike and falling headlong, hurling the driver, Drake, of Sabina, entirely over the animal's head. Drake fell heavily upon his shoulder but was not seriously hurt. The horse was not badly injured.

Hot Ball, with Roy Craig driving, was trailing the Strathmore horse and struck the wrecked sulky. Craig was hurled into the air and nearly struck the fence when he fell, while Hot

Ball continued about the track without a driver.

The 2:16 pace was won by Denver Downs, owned by C. M. Turner, of Port William, in three straight heats.

C. H. & D. BUYS ADDITIONAL CARS

New York, August 22.—The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton has ordered 1,000 box cars from the Mount Vernon Car company and 1000 gondola cars from the Cambria Steel Company. It is understood, however, that these orders are contingent upon new financing which the road is contemplating being put through before October 1.

The above, coupled with notice of a recent order for $1,000,000 worth of new locomotives for the road, indicates that, notwithstanding the fact that the road is in the hands of receivers, there is a bright future before it.

The 2,000 cars and some 35 new engines will place the road in position to handle an increased amount of freight.

It is possible that the local branch will be used extensively for transferring coal from the states across the river to the lakes. Following the completion of the new C. & O. branch much of the coal traffic may be turned over that road.

Every advertisement should say something people would like to know about goods they would like to possess.

FIFTY YEARS AGO AND PRICES TODAY

Through the courtesy of H. H. Johnston, of this city, The Democrat is enabled to present a comparison of the prices of dry goods today with those of 1864, just fifty years ago. If prices are high today owing to the war in Europe, it can readily be seen what they would be if we were so unfortunate as to have war at home.

The first column represents the wholesale price, per yard, in 1864; the second column is the retail price, per yard, today:

1864	Today
Prints .....	50 .06...
Ginghams .....	48 1/2 .08 1-3
Ticks .....	72 1/2 .22 1/2
Canton Flannel ..	75 8 to 12 1/2
Brown Shirtings ..	54 .12 1/2
Brown sheetings ..	72 1/2 .10
Blea Cottons .....	77 1/2 .11
Sheetings, etc. ....	1.60 .32

Fifty years ago the wholesale price of spool cotton was $2.00 per dozen. —Madison Democrat.

CARRYING AN UMBRELLA.

Don't Hold It Before Your Face In a Crowded Street.

"There are a great many persons injured on windy, rainy nights because they hold their umbrellas down in order to protect their faces from the driving rain," explained an ambulance surgeon. "In their desire to protect themselves from the rain they place themselves in grave danger of being struck and run over by surface cars, automobiles and other vehicles."

"If you wish proof of my assertion just stand in a doorway some night where you are protected from the rain and where you are in a position to see an expanse of thoroughfare which all kinds of vehicles use. You will be surprised at the large number of persons you will notice crossing the thoroughfare with their umbrellas held down so far that it is impossible for them to see anything approaching. They seem oblivious of danger, and a spectator would suppose from their actions that there was not the remotest chance of an accident occurring."

"It is a fact that many pedestrians are injured on windy, rainy nights. With their umbrellas pulled down so that it is impossible to see ahead or to the sides, the pedestrians walk in front of vehicles and are knocked down and injured before they realize what has happened."—New York Sun.

Foiled.

Billy Miller says a friend of his has been trying for two months to sell his automobile.

"But he couldn't," reports the veracious Mr. Miller. "He cut the price down to almost nothing and didn't get a bite. So the other day he got desperate and put this advertisement in the paper."

"I've rented a ten acre field opposite my house. In that field I shall place the car I have been trying to sell. The first man to that car after 6 o'clock tomorrow morning may have it."

"And what happened?" you ask Mr. Miller.

"Well," says the young man, "my friend woke up early the next morning and looked out, and there in the field were four other cars."—Herbert Corey in New York Globe.

The Thieving Ear of Corn.

Twelve ears of corn will plant an acre. If one of the planted ears happens to be "no good" there is a twelfth of an acre missing. An acre of corn may be worth $30 to $40, so to discover a thieving ear is worth from $2.50 to $3.50. One can pick out the ears of poor germination at slight cost if he will test his corn before he becomes rushed with spring work. And while about it reject the ears that, although germinating, do not send up strong, vigorous stalks. Lusty, vigorous young things grow surest into profit, whether they be pigs, lambs, colts or cornstalks.—Breeder's Gazette.

Yes, He Was All Right.

George R. Sims' account of forgetting his own address and having to look it up in the telephone directory was capped by a friend of mine, says a writer in the London Sphere, who told a story of a man trying to tell him from what he had been suffering. "I have been very ill," he said, "with—with—with—" and could get no further. And then suddenly it came to him. "with loss of memory. But," he added, "I'm all right now."

Nothing Left.

"Have you," asked the judge of a recently convicted man, "anything to offer the court before sentence is passed?"

"No, your honor," replied the prisoner. "My lawyer took my last farthing."—London Tit-Bits.

Storm Center.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." "In a republic it is the president's private secretary who acquires the insomnia."—Kansas City Journal.

Effective Covering.

"When the train bandit was captured was he covered with confusion?" "No, sir; with the train crew's revolvers."—Baltimore American.

In Social Circles

An extremely pretty porch party to which every accessory of tasteful appointment and cordial hospitality were added attraction, was given by Miss Lucy Edna Pine Saturday morning, in honor of her guest, Miss Edith Rauch, of Norwood.

Fifty girls, a full representation of the younger set, found the perfect summer morning on the big porch, one of unusual gaiety.

A profusion of golden glow and cosmos adorned the porch and a concert of Victrola music was enjoyed while the girls chatted merrily over their fancy work.

A dainty summer collation was served, Mrs. Ed Pine, Misses Pauline Pine, Mary Craig, Jane Saxton, Eleanor McClain and Elizabeth Westerfield of New Orleans, La., assisting in the hospitalities.

NATIVE INNS IN JAPAN.

Where You Shed Your Shoes Before Going to Your Room.

The entrance to native inns in Japan is most always a roofed vestibule with a well trodden earthen floor backed by a raised platform about twenty inches high, forming at once a seat and the outer extension of the first floor.

A scattered line of shoes, sandals and geta belonging to the guests usually lie along it, and at one side is a cupboard where umbrellas and footgear are deposited. A big drop octagon clock on the wall, a low desk, a hibachi and a pile of cushions generally complete the office equipment.

The traveler's jinrikī customarily deposits him in the vestibule, at the edge of the platform, beneath the overhang of the roof. Shouts of "O Kyaku san" (honorable visitor) apprise the master and the maids that a guest is arriving and all hurry forward to receive him, uttering cries of welcome and bowing glossy black heads to the floor.

As the traveler sits on the platform a servant removes his shoes and others divest him of his wraps. Shoes are seldom cleaned, and if they be wet or muddy they are left untouched. Habitual frequenters of inns often provide themselves with foot coverings to slip over shoes and thus be able to wear them to the apartment. Without them one must don the heeless slippers furnished or go to one's room unshod.—Kansas City Times.

DOPED AUTOMOBILES.

Acid Sometimes Used to Put Ginger in Second Hand Cars.

"If you are intending to buy a second hand automobile from a stranger or any one but a reputable dealer, keep an eye open to see that the car is not 'doped,'" said H. Clifford Brokaw, principal of the automobile school of the West Side Young Men's Christian association. "Not long ago a friend told me he had a chance to buy a very good car at a low price. He said he knew it was a good car because it could climb the highest hills on high gear. It could almost jump over a house, he said.

"An investigation showed that the car was old, but that previous to the trial trip it had been doped with picric acid. Picric acid, mixed with gasoline, will give a motor a greatly increased power. A wornout motor can be made to do wonderful stunts by the use of proper proportions of picric acid. Chloroform will have the same effect. Picric acid, however, will ruin the cylinders of the best motor. It will give the car much greater power when first used, but I would not care to buy an automobile in which it had been used."—New York Times.

Failures.

"I did, your honor." "Thereby proving yourself without character. Below normal weight?" "I was, your honor." "Then step over there with Napoleon, Alexander, Hannibal, Newton, Charlemagne, Kant, Pope, William Pitt and William of Orange." "What's the matter with them, your honor?" "Matter enough. They are all defectives. They've failed to pass our tests."—Life.

FOR OPEN DOOR POLICY IN CHINA

Senator Gallinger's Resolution Creates a Sensation.

WILL LIKELY BE SUPPRESSED

Administration Determined to Keep
Out of the Far Eastern Question Raised by Japan Against Germany
as Long as Possible—Taking of Kiauchau Not a Before-Breakfast Proposition.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire created a sensation by introducing a joint resolution for the "open door policy" in China and proclaiming that the United States would not view with indifference any departure from it. He asked that his resolution be referred to the foreign relations committee. While there is considerable sentiment in support of it, even in the committee, it is the opinion of the senate leaders that the influence of the president and Secretary Bryan will be exerted toward suppressing it at this time.

Though officials declined to admit

the receipt of an inquiry from China suggesting that the United States serve as intermediary for the transfer of Kiauchau from Germany to China, it was evident that there is very little likelihood of such a proposal being favorably accepted if made. The administration is determined to keep out of the far eastern question raised by Japan against Germany as long as possible, and certainly will not enter in on the basis of such a proposal as that emanating from China. The only possible chance of its being accepted, it was declared, would be in the event that Japan and Great Britain and Germany joined in a request that the United States act. Such a request is considered unlikely.

It became known that Japan will not accept such a suggestion as that from Peking. Japan will require from Germany a "yes" or "no" reply to its ultimatum of last Sunday and no other form of response will be accepted or even considered. It is expected that Germany probably will hand her reply to the Japanese charge d'affaires in Berlin at the very last minute.

It was pointed out here that the taking of Kiauchau by Japan will not be such a simple matter as had been supposed. While the German garrison is not more than 5,000 men, the city and port of Taintau are so strongly fortified that a small force could easily hold them against a vastly superior force for a long time.

TEDDY R. DESERTS HINMAN

Indorses Action of Progressive Steering Committee.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The Bull Moose committee of twenty-one, after turning down Harvey D. Hinman in New York city, came down here to get Colonel Roosevelt's approval. They got it.

The members of the Progressive steering committee agreed on a straight Progressive ticket in the state as far as possible, and at least for the head of the ticket. Colonel Roosevelt agreed with them on that and said in a belligerent fashion that he would carry the battle from one end of the state to the other.

Theodore Douglas Robinson, state chairman, and William H. Hotchkiss accompanied the members of the committee to Oyster Bay.

"Whatever action these gentlemen take," said the colonel, "I stand ready to back it up. I will back the Progressive ticket and will fight for it from one end of the state to the other. The Republican convention at Saratoga showed that the Progressive ticket is the only one for which decent citizens can honestly vote. I will fight for this party in every section of the state and I'm getting better all the time. I never felt better in my life."

EATING PASTY POI.

A Painful Experience With the Popular Food of Hawaii.

The national food of Hawaii is "poi." It is to them what rice is to the Chinese, frijoles to the Mexicans, blubber to the Eskimos. The first day I was there some friends of mine—or I had thought they were friends—invited me into eating some of it.

"It's made out of taro root," they explained. "They take an iron that looks like a pestle, put the roots on a hoi-lowed out board about the size of a table leaf and pound it up. It is their staff of life. Have some."

With that the person with whom I had been friendly passed me a dish of poi. It looked like billboard paste—the same color, the same consistency and, from as near as I could politely get my nose, the same smell.

"They eat it with their forefingers," he explained, "and it is known as one finger or two finger poi according to how thick it is. This is two finger poi, so you will have to dip two fingers in and quickly put them well back into your mouth. Just go ahead and help yourself."

I wanted to make a bit surer what I was eating and started to take a tiny taste, but he saw the motion and a line of pain ran across his face that I should doubt the food he had set out for me. "We have plenty of it," he said cordially, holding out the bowl.

With that I thrust my two fingers in, stirred them around until the poi was clinging to them and, bending over, thrust them into my mouth—well back. Immediately I knew that I had made a mistake: the rosy stuff got on to my tongue and wouldn't come off. The moment it touched my tongue I knew that it not only looked like billboard paste and smelled like it, but that it tasted like a pot that had been left over from yesterday. For an hour I tried to worry it off my tongue and all afternoon I could taste it lurking in my mouth.—Homer Croy in Leslie's.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

Some of the Rewards That Come to Those Who Follow It.

I am bound to praise the simple life because I have lived it and found it good. * * * I love a small house, plain clothes, simple living. Many persons know the luxury of a skin bath—a plunge in the pool or the wave, unhampered by clothing. That is the simple life—direct and immediate contact with things, life with the false wrappings torn away—the fine house, the fine equipage, the expensive habits all cut off. How free one feels, how good the elements taste, how close one gets to them, how they fit one's body and soul! To see the fire that warms you or, better yet, to eat the wood that feeds the fire that warms you; to see the spring where the water bubbles up that slakes your thirst and to dip your pail into it; to see the beams that are the stay of your four walls and the timbers that uphold the roof that shelters you; to be in direct and personal contact with the sources of your material life; to want no extras, no shields; to find the air and the water exhilarating; to be refreshed by a morning walk or an evening saunter; to find a quest of wild berries more satisfying than a gift of tropic fruit; to be thrilled by the stars at night; to be elated over a bird's nest—these are some rewards of the simple life.—John Burroughs. Quoted in "Our John Burroughs," by Clara Barris.

CONSPIRATORS IN STRONG DRAGNET

Indictments Anticipated In Probes Into High Prices.

GRAND JURIES SOON TO REPORT

Offenders in Brooklyn, Washington, Chicago and Three Other Cities Expected to Be Landed in Jail—Meat Packers Said to Be Exporting While Claiming a Shortage—Rise in the Price of Sugar.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Although the department of justice dragnet to catch conspirators who have raised foodstuff prices and given the cost of living a boost has not been drawn in, there are strong indications that at least six grand juries in as many different localities soon will be asked to return indictments against dealers alleged to be in conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust act.

Juries are almost certain to be asked for indictments in Washington, Chicago, Brooklyn and three other cities, the names of which the department at present will not reveal. In Chicago the effort to jail offenders will be made immediately.

Despite the unwillingness of officials to discuss the investigations at the present time, it leaked out that information has been obtained concerning beef packers in Chicago which may result in prosecutions. Department of justice agents, it was said, have discovered that packers are shipping large quantities of meat across the Canadian border. At the same time the prices on meats are advancing.

Department officials are at a loss to explain how the packers can export meat and still plead there is a shortage. It is understood here that the packers have not taken kindly to the investigation. The plan adopted has been to look into the affairs of branch houses, and the packers have objected and insisted that the investigations be made at headquarters.

The rise in the price of sugar has led to a renewed interest among department officials in the investigation of the supposed connection between the so called sugar trust and the beet sugar interests.

The United States department of agriculture was held responsible for a shortage of beef and the consequent rise in meat prices by F. W. Lyman, representing a Chicago packing house. He said that the department of agriculture on Aug. 1 warned the farmers to hold their grain because there was a lack of shipping facilities, due to the war abroad. The farmers, he declared, assumed the same lack of means of transportation would apply to cattle as well, and they failed to send the normal amount of beef to the markets.

LAST BLESSING

Rome, Aug. 22.—A few hours before his death the pope was asked to bestow his blessing upon Father Wernz, head of the Jesuit order, who was then dying. The pontiff complied, saying "This is the last blessing we shall give."

MILLION MEN ARE AFFECTED

Washington, Aug. 22.—Instructions have been sent to James W. Gerard, ambassador to Germany, and American consular officers in that country to notify the state department at once whether the European war will prevent the shipment of dye stuffs to the United States. The matter is of vital importance to the woolen, cotton, silk, leather and other industries in this country that use colors, as the present supply is only sufficient to keep such factories going for about sixty days. When the present supply is exhausted it is estimated that at least a million men will be thrown out of employment. For this reason every effort will be made to relieve the situation so as to get German dye stuffs. Ambassador Gerard has been asked to notify the state department whether Germany has placed an embargo on shipment of dye stuffs, and if not, whether the Rhine is open for transportation. If it is found that no embargo has been placed on shipments of dye stuffs, officials will be sent abroad to arrange for shipments.

likely that they will be seen during
the next three Sunday contests,
which are apportioned as follows:
Sunday, August 23, New York; Sunday, August 30, Philadelphia; Sunday, Sept. 6, St. Louis. One high
class left-hander and one first rate
right hander will put the Reds' pitching staff right where it belongs—
and it is reasonable to suppose that
both these wants will be filled before the present season closes.
Instead of being one of the last
cities of the United States to see the latest things in automobiles this season, in accordance with these Arrangements have been completed
for holding the annual Cincinnati
automobile show in October, instead
of waiting until the end of February.
The Cincinnati Automobile Dealers'
Association, which has been so successful in conducting the big local
shows for some years past, has selected the dates from October 3 to 10 for
this season's exhibit, and has engaged
the three big sections of Music Hall
for the display. It is promised that there will be more cars and greater
special attractions at this show than ever before were shown in the middle west, outside of Chicago.

It seems pretty well settled that
the Olympic games of 1916 will not be held in Berlin, and that the United States will offer about the only
neutral ground in the world for those contests. In accordance with those deductions the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce has started a movement to bring the games to Cincinnati, provided the United States is chosen for
the contests. Cincinnati offers excellent advantages for a series of
sports of that kind embraced in the Olympiad, its location among hills being particularly attractive for the
running of the Marathon, which
promises to be the big event of the coming Olympic games.
Now they're picking Johnny Kil-
bane as the boy to trim Freddie Welsh, the little Englishman, who
recently won the world's light-weight
title from Willie Ritchie, the American champion. Of course, it is known that Kilbane fights at the
featherweight limit—128 pounds—
and is good and strong at that tonnage. But his admirers say that he can take on a little more weight—
say eight pounds—and not slow or handicap himself in any way. As the American light-weight limit of 133
pounds, and the next fight for the light-weight championship will be fought in America, the fighting game
in England, especially for little fellows, being dull during these war
times, Kilbane would be under no
serious handicap in meeting Welsh.
And if he does meet him, say the wise
ones, the light-weight championship
will make a quick switch back to America.

Jupiter In Mythology.

In Roman mythology Jupiter was the supreme deity, the head and front of the whole system, god of the air and king of the celestials. He was primarily a divinity of the sky and the
originator of all atmospheric changes
and weather conditions. His weapon
was the thunderbolt, and one of his titles was Jupiter Tonans, thundering
Jupiter. Heavy or continuous rain
was attributed to Jupiter Pluvius,
rainy or rain sending Jupiter. When
the earth became parched with heat
and was in sore need of rain Romans
invoked the great God as "Jupiter Pluvius"

TIPP CITY HAS
STRONG LINEUP

Team That Plays Here Sunday Will
be Remembered as Same That Defeated Washington in a 1 to 0 Game
Last Season. With the Addition of a Few Leaguers—Has a Good Record This Year.

A letter to Manager Carl Noon of
the Athletics, from the manager of the Tippecanoe City club, which is to play here Sunday afternoon, contains the line-up of the visitors and
a little dope concerning their staff
and record for the present year. The Tipps have won eight games this season and among the defeated is the Dayton Lily Brews of no little amateur fame. On their line-up appears
the names of Catcher Bole, formerly
of the Ohio State League; Otey,
pitcher, with the Dayton Central league team last year; Huckins, first base, and Wentzel, short stop, both
formerly with the Southern league.
The rest of the team with one exception, played with the nine last year
when it defeated Washington in a close 1 to 0 game.

The Tippecanoe City line-up follows: Bole, c; Schultz, p; Otey, p;
Huckins, 1b; Wells, 2b; Wentzel, ss;
Huffer, 3b; Huckins, lf; Walker, cf;
Jackson, rf; Henn and Vandever,

PUZZLES TO THE BLIND.

Lack of "Size Sense" Gives Them Odd
Ideas About Animals.

The path of the teacher of the blind
is beset with many difficulties, one of the greatest being the task of conveying to their mind some idea of the size, shape and features of birds and animals. In many cases, it is true, models are used, but owing to their
small size they are, to say the least,
of doubtful advantage.
The ignorance of blind children is great, often grotesque. A teacher of a class may find that a child does not know whether a sheep or a cow is the larger, or he may even find that a hare has wings. However carefully
they are told that a small model of a cow is only one-fortieth the size of the real animal, more often than not they are unable to think of the animal as being any larger than the model and will stoop and describe something about the size of a kitten when
asked to indicate the size of a cow.
This arises from the fact that no
standard of size, form and texture—beyond those which they set up through handling—can exist for those who have never had the use of their eyes.
Even those who have had sight are found to lose their standards unless
they are renewed from time to time
by actual contact. An instance of this
was noticed not long ago when a boy
of about twelve recovered his sight
after an operation and for several days following went about in a state
of surprise and fear, for almost everything which he had not been in the habit of touching frequently differed
considerably in size from his recollections of seven years before. The size
of his parents alarmed him very much,
as he imagined they were much smaller.—Strand Magazine.

ENLIVENED THE PLAY.

Sentiment and Impromptu Humor at a Moving Picture Show.

"Where we went last night," said
a frequenter of moving picture shows,
"there was a scene in one of the films
showing a man and a girl, young lovers, kissing. She was a pretty girl
and he was a fine, manly, young fellow, and of course everybody was deeply interested in the picture. But
at the precise instant that the lovers'
lips met some man in the audience exploded with a gigantic sneeze, where-
at the whole house blew up with spontaneous hilarious laughter.
In this picture scene there was a third figure, that of a man who had seen the lovers meeting and who when
he saw them kiss turned away from
them to smile. He was, to be sure,
smiling over the lovers; but as he looked out on the house at this moment
with that smile on his face he seemed like a real man smiling in appreciative
understanding of what had just happened in the audience. At the sight of his smiling face the audience again
blew up. But, of course, the pictures
kept on moving all the time, and in
half a minute the audience had once
more settled down to look on again at the pictures in the usual quiet."—New York Sun.

A Long Shot.

In a certain textbook on arithmetic
which was designed for use in schools appears the following ingenious problem: "A cannon ball travels 540 feet in one second. How far will it be from the muzzle of the gun after the lapse of thirty-five minutes?"—New York Post.

Keeping Onions.

To prevent onions from sprouting let the onions dry, heat a poker red hot and with it singe the roots. Put in a dry place and you will find they will keep perfectly.

Contradictory Language.

when two babies come together we say it's twina.—Strickland W. Gillman.

THAT "SINGULAR BEING."

Edmund Gosse's Pen Portrait of the Poet Swinburne.

In the "Collected Essays of Edward Gosse" is an elaborate pen picture of Swinburne. "Of all the human beings
whom I have known," he says, "I think that Algernon Swinburne was
the most extraordinary." And here is the characteristic way in which he begins to sketch that "singular being":
"He was short, with sloping shoulders, from which rose a long and slender neck, surmounted by a very large head. The cranium seemed to be out of all proportion to the rest of the structure. His spine was rigid, and,
though he often bowed the heaviness
of his head, "lasso papavero collo," he seemed never to bend his back. Except in consequence of a certain physical weakness, which probably may in more philosophical days come to be accounted for and palliated—except when suffering from this external
cause, he seemed immune from all the maladies that pursue mankind.
"He did not know fatigue; his agility
and brightness were almost mechanical. I never heard him complain of a headache or a toothache. He required
very little sleep, and occasionally when
I have parted from him in the evening
after saying good night he has simply sat back in the deep sofa in his sitting room, his little feet close together, his arms against his side, folded in
his frock coat like a grasshopper in
its wing covers, and fallen asleep, apparently for the night, before I could blow out the candles and steal forth
from the door.
"I am speaking, of course, of early days; it was thus about 1875 that I closely observed him. He was more
a hypertrophied intelligence than a
man. His vast brain seemed to weigh down and give solidity to a frame
otherwise as light as thistledown, a body almost as immaterial as that of a fairy. In the streets he had the movements of a somnambulist, and often I have seen him passing like a ghost across the traffic of Holborn or threading the pressure of carts eastward in Gray's Inn road without glancing to the left or the right, like something blown before a wind."

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation
of the disease, and giving the patient strength
by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. (The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.)

ROAD REPAIRING RECEIVES ATTENTION

The annual repair of the county highways is now in progress, and next week will be an unusually busy one in road working throughout the county.

To date Joseph Whiteside, of Madison county, has placed one and one-half miles of gravel upon the roadways in his township; O. A. Klever, in Paint, has distributed 1000 loads.

Next week the Bloomingburg and Danville road will receive attention, and the Mt. Sterling and Waterloo pikes, as well as a half score of other main roads in the county.

CHILD ATTACKED BY VICIOUS DOG

Little Myrtle Grimm, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grimm, Formerly of This County, Painfully Lacerated by Fangs of Vicious Shepherd Dog in Lancaster.

Myrtle, the little four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grimm formerly of this county, was attacked and shockingly injured by a vicious shepherd dog while the child was playing with the animal at the home of relatives in Lancaster.

The child had been fondling the brute when the dog suddenly turned and leaped upon the little tot, knocking her down and tearing at her tender flesh until it had inflicted long, ragged wounds across the face.

Medical attention was summoned and while the wounds were being dressed she became very ill, and turning to her mother she lisped: "Please mother, don't let them bury me in the ground."

The owner of the dog killed the brute and sent its head to Columbus for examination, fearing it might have been suffering from hydrophobia.

The child is recovering very slowly from the ugly wounds sustained.

SOLDIERS COMING MONDAY MORNING

The city will resemble an armed camp, Monday morning, until the 750 to 800 troops of the Fourth regiment march out of the city toward their final camp at Maple Grove.

The first troops will arrive early in the morning, and all will be here by 9:15 a. m. and a short time afterward will take up the march toward the first camp site between this city and Frankfort.

It will be an interesting sight, and one which will be watched by hundreds of local citizens. The baggage wagon train will be a feature of the mobilization here.

6,000 ATTEND THE LYNDON ANNUAL PICNIC

A crowd estimated at fully 6,000 persons attended the farmers' annual picnic in the Parrett grove at Lyndon, Thursday and Governor Cox addressed the throngs, speaking upon live topics of the day, and topics of particular interest to farmers were discussed.

Governor Cox praised President Wilson for the manner in which he is meeting the present crisis caused by the European war. He also said that as commander-in-chief of the military forces of Ohio he would not give an Ohio regiment for all of the Mexican "greasers" in the world.

Music for the picnic was furnished by Price's Premier band of Greenfield.

CHANGED CARS AND NORMAL CONDITION

Following is an excerpt from the police pickings of the Springfield Sun of Saturday:

"On his way from New Castle, Ind., to his home in Washington C. H., James Ward said he 'changed cars here and incidentally his normal condition. An officer found 'Jimie' down and out and the court gave him $5 and costs for drunk and disorderly. The sentence was suspended and he was told to continue on his way."

NEGLECTED TRAPS FULL OF FLIES

Some of the fly traps displayed on the sidewalks have long since succeeded in imprisoning several quarts of flies, and the insects rave died and their decaying remains fill the traps for several inches in depth, causing a very unsanitary condition to result from the poisonous and germ infected flies.

The traps have done good work, and with a little attention, will do more good work toward making the city flyless.

PRISONER IN JAIL FINE STILL UNPAID

Remanded to jail until his fine of $25 and costs is paid, and with little indication of payment of the fine, Carry Crabtree still languishes in prison, and unless the fine is paid will probably remain there for some little time.

A workhouse sentence was not provided by Judge Craig in case the fine was not paid, as he believed the fine would be paid at once, hence the imprisonment in the local jail.

Only the Choicest Silk Is Used For the Best Jewels.

TYING KNOTS AS A FINE ART.

The Perfect Hang of the Necklace Depends Upon How These Tiny Twists Are Formed, and It May Take a Year to Master the Knack.

The pearl stringers themselves call it a "trade." They are not the kind of people to talk about art. If they see anything of their work beyond the prosaic fact that "stringing" is a good employment it is only an indirect and somewhat vague appreciation of the delicate attraction of the pearls they handle.

Although not professing to be expert judges, I have never met a pearl stringer yet whose eye and taste were not trained to a fine perception of the form and color of the beamy, iridescent luster of the jewel of the shellfish. It would be as impossible for them to mistake an artificial pearl for a real one as it would be for a lapidary to begin to polish a piece of glass under the impression it was a diamond.

It is often said that the little known industry of pearl stringing is dying out, but this is not the fact. No machinery is yet invented to supersede the ten clever fingers of the practiced stringer. The industry is exclusive, too, and a business has often been passed on from mother to daughter, even from grandmother to grandchild. Drilling and mounting of pearls is quite a different branch of the industry.

Good light is one of the essential needs of the pearl stringer, especially when she is employed in making or repairing seed pearl ornaments. All the beads have to be arranged according to their size and then separately and most carefully sewed into place on their dainty framework. For instance, if the design is that of a flower or leaf the skill lies in graduating from the biggest pearl to the one that touches the extreme point. Some of these ornaments, by the way, are very old, for if they are carefully handled there is no reason why they should not be a joy, if not forever, at all events for as long as the handsome, antique pendants and pearl studded medals of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries that one still admires in the British museum.

Only the finest silk is used for stringing the finest pearls. Great beads, round and shiny, unmistakably artificial and with no more real luster than white marbles—with the exception of what are called Roman pearls, manufactured many years ago—may be allowed to hang together on catgut, but pearls must be threaded, pearl kissing pearl, on silken strands worthy of their shape and "skin."

Now the art of the stringer lies in the apparently simple manner of tying the knot that attaches the snap. Sometimes also she has to make a knot between bead and bead, a method that adds to the length of the necklace, but detracts from the beauty of the line of pearls. The knack of making this tiny knot will perhaps take a girl a year to master; the perfect hang of the beads, neither too loose nor too tight, depends on how it is made.

There is no needle fine enough for threading small seed pearls, so the stringer makes her own out of a piece of wire as thin as a hair. She arranges her pearls, if they are of different sizes, on a grooved board covered with billiard table cloth, any other material, such as green baize, being much too coarse. When she is making a tassel or loops, it is pretty to watch her hold her work at arm's length every few minutes, measuring its size and effect with her well trained eye. It is hardly necessary to strict integrity and unflinching care required in a pearl stringer. She is entrusted with great possessions, for the value of pearls is continually on the increase. There are some ladies who never trust their treasures out of their own houses, but arrange, through a jeweler, for a pearl stringer to call so many times a year to repair ornaments or restring necklaces.

The work of the pearl stringer is so little known, so quiet and dainty, that it is doubtful if one in a thousand women who stop to admire and covet as they pass show windows ever gives a thought to the patient fingers that have threaded the beautiful beads and tied the almost invisible, cunning knots that link them to their diamond clasps. The little band of stringers are very simple, but businesslike people in their humble workrooms—devotees of beauty, although they are unconscious of the fact, and true artists in the perfection of their work.—London Chronicle.

TACT AND A PLUMBER.

Masterly inactivity at a Banquet in High Society.

Not so very long ago there was a dinner given in exclusive Washington society at which the most tactful person was undoubtedly a plumber in overalls.

A plumber was hastily called. He crawled under the table and soon had the fountain sending a delicate spray into the air. He was busy tightening the couplings of the temporary pipes under the table when the head butler, his mind relieved of a load of care when he saw the fountain playing, announced in the drawing room:

"Dinner is served."

Before the plumber knew what was happening the guests had entered the dining room, chairs were drawn up, and he suddenly found himself hemmed in by a wall in which trousers alternated with skirts.

It was a big round table, so he was safe from discovery from any shifting foot. He scratched his head and wondered what he should do. He looked carefully around. Neither to the right

nor to the left nor between any pair of feet was there sufficient space for him to wiggle through. The only way to get out would be to tap on some knee and—"Pardon me, please."

He didn't know much about the etiquette of formal dinner parties, but he had a hunch that that wouldn't make a hit. He decided that there was just one thing to do—stay where he was until the trousers and skirt wall departed. So there he sat while course after course was served, coffee sipped, cigarettes and cigars smoked, nothing to entertain him but a ground floor view of high society.

When the dinner was at last over and the guests had returned to the drawing room the plumber crawled forth.

The hostess had tarried for a moment to give a few directions to the head butler. She gasped with astonishment.

The plumber explained. "Sir," said she, "you are a gentleman." Then to the head butler, "James, give this man $10 for himself." Then to the plumber, "And please say nothing."—New York Times.

Both Played the Game.
The head of the firm approached his son.

"What was the idea when I looked in your room just now? You and that traveler appeared to be walking round and round the office."

"Oh! It says in this Business Manual that one should always be careful when interviewing anybody to have one's back to the light. But I think the other fellow must have been up to that dodge. When we settled down at the finish he was sitting on the window sill," was the disconsolate reply.—London Answers.

Do you know what they are all making? Did you know that Ohio leads the country in the manufacture of carriages and wagons, of pottery and clay products, and a few other things? That it is second in automobiles?

What do you know about your state, in the lines of practical knowledge that every resident ought to know? It is impossible to remember much of the data that you read, of course, and you need your memory for things of immediate use in the task of earning your daily bread. ## ALL EUROPE AWAITING OUTCOME OF THE GERMANY-JAPAN AFFAIR

Ultimatum Expires Tomorrow With Germany Apparently Determined to Stand
Her Gound and Japan Fully Prepared to Wage War in Orient.

London, August 21.—With the Germans bombarding the forts of Namur and large forces of their troops continuing to move westward
a contact must soon be joined with the main allied forces. The German army then for the first time will find itself facing its chief opponents and a great battle, which must have an enormous effect on the future of the war, will probably ebb and flow for several days before a decision is reached.

The front of the German fighting line may extend far to the westward
if the suggestion is well founded that the right wing of the Emperor's battalions is carrying a great circling movement with a view of breaking into France further to the south.

According to French official reports victories gained by the French troops have opened the way to Colmar, capital of Upper Alsace. Seven thousand Austrians are reported to have arrived at Strassburg for the defense of that fortress.

Both Germany and Austria-Hungary have called the Landstrum, their last reserve of troops, to the colors.

If the news of a great Serbian victory,
which comes from many sources,
be true Austria-Hungary, which must be reeling under the smashing blow delivered by her small adversary,
will need every available man.

By Associated Press.

London, Aug. 22.—The German advance into Belgium is going on today apparently without serious check.
Having taken Brussels the troops of Emperor William are forcing their way steadily and rapidly to the north and west. They have occupied Ghent and are approaching Bruges and Ostend. They would appear to be endeavoring to overrun the whole northern and western Belgium. At the same time they would seem to be drawing closer to the French frontier. Southeast of Brussels they are investing the fortified city of Namur on the Meuse.

It is reported from Antwerp that the Germans will not continue to occupy Brussels, contenting themselves merely with marching through the city. This determination, however, may be altered by the attitude of the city treasurer of Brussels who is quoted as saying he will never pay over $40,000,000 demanded by the Germans as a war tax.

CARDINALS TAKE OATH TO PRESERVE SECRETS

By Associated Press.

Rome, August 22.—The body of Pope Pius X, clad in his pontifical robes and with the emblems of his sacred office beside it, lay today in the chapel of the Blessed Sacrament in St. Peter's. The doors of the great church were opened and the faithful resumed their pilgrimages to the bier. Preparations for the burial are now under way.

The stairway leading to the crypt under the altar, where the remains of St. Peter lie, has been covered with heavy boards. Down these the bier will be lowered gently until it is finally deposited near the casket of Pope Pius VI. Three hundred invitations have been issued for the ce-monies of entombing. Among those present will be members of the diplomatic corps and representatives of the Italian nobility. The troops were withdrawn from the square of St.

Peter's this afternoon.

Rome, August 22.—Twenty-three cardinals met today in the first congregation of cardinals to arrange the temporary government of the church and prepare for the conclave in September, when a successor to Pope Pius X will be elected.

After taking the oath to maintain secret their discussion "even to the shedding of blood", the cardinals performed the traditional ceremony of breaking the fisherman's ring. The rite, however, was not literally carried out. It was learned today that the late Pope's will provides for the maintenance of about 400 little children made orphans by the earthquake
at Messina in 1908.

How Opposing Forces Are Arrayed Outside Brussels.

ANTWERP WILL FIGHT IT OUT

Antwerp, Aug. 22.—A city cut off from her country by a great hostile force, Antwerp is gathering her resources and preparing to make history. Every moment that passes brings rumors of the approach of a German army close at the heels of the Belgians who held off the Kaiser's troops for fifteen days at Liege, Tirlemont, Louvain and many other points while the French were rushing to the border and the fate of France seemed to tremble in the balance.

There is no longer any doubt that the military chiefs believe that sooner or later Antwerp must stand for a siege, for the work of preparing the city for a tremendous resistance by land and sea is progressing at wonderful speed.

So far as is known, the main Belgian army when it retired from Brussels fell back upon Malines, the lace city. Fighting was reported there, and it is believed that Malines has fallen.

GENERAL LEMAN IS PRISONER OF WAR

London, Aug. 22.—A supposedly official message from Berlin, which has reached here by wireless, ridicules the stories emanating from Belgian sources that General Leman, the Belgian commander, escaped from the forts at Liege. The message says that General Leman is now a prisoner of war at Cologne.

Information has reached Ostend from Brussels that the Liege forts were still holding out on Aug. 18 and that the coal mines in the neighborhood were working, the miners being allowed to pass to and fro from their homes without molestation. Trains reaching Ostend are crowded with refugees, some of whom escaped from the battle line at Louvain.

GIVE GERMANS HOT RECEPTION

Paris, Aug. 22.—The battles around Muelhausen have been particularly bloody for the Germans, who, knowing the French would spare as much as possible the Alsations and their property, hid themselves in houses protected by the Red Cross, whence they fired on the French. The French directed a violent rifle and artillery fire on their assailants, causing great carnage. Every German leaving these houses was shot down. A battery of six guns with their caissons filled with ammunition were captured from the Germans. They were taken to Belfort, where crowds of curious townspeople gathered to see them.

ENORMOUS LOSS

Rome, Aug. 22.—The newspapers print the following dispatch, dated Nish, Serbia, Aug. 21: "The general staff announces the complete victory of the Serbs in a four days' battle near Losnitza. Austrians to the number of 150,000 fought an equal number of Serbs. The losses on both sides were enormous. The victors captured great booty and several thousand prisoners."

CARDINALS TO TACKLE BIG GAME

Some Expression Expected From the Conclave.

Rome, Aug. 22.—The body of Pope Plus X. was removed from the throne room of the vatican to the chapel of the sacrament at St. Peter's, where it will lie in state until the final ceremonies, which end with the interment in the crypt of the great cathedral.

In accordance with the wishes of the pope expressed in his last days, the three days lying in state in the throne room was dispensed with. That was a ceremony simply for the benefit of the nobles of the church and of the state. Such things had always been most distasteful to the man who never forgot that he was born a peasant.

The burial of the pope will be absolutely private.

Saddened as everything is by the death of the church's head, it has not interfered with preparations for the conclave of cardinals which is to choose the new pope. Cardinal Della Volpe, the cardinal chamberlain, who is the temporary head of the church, has a most delicate task in providing for it. The next pope is almost certain to be an Italian.

Undoubtedly some expression will come from the conclave concerning the European war. It is conceded to be the duty of the church to express itself, but the form which it is to take will have to be most carefully considered for fear of causing a most embarrassing situation.

SAIL FOR ROME

New York, Aug. 22.—The White Star liner Canopic, from Boston to Naples, touched in at New York for a few hours to take on board Cardinal Gibbons. Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston, was already on the Canopic. The two American cardinals will reach Rome about Sept. 1. Cardinal O'Connell said, and that the conclave for the election of the next pope had been tentatively set for Sept. 3.

RUSS JEWS LOYAL

St. Petersburg, Aug. 22.—Officials here are responsible for the statement that the population of the Finnish provinces are loyal and that the Russian Jews are standing by the government.

SHOEMAKING IN AMERICA.

Massachusetts Now Turns Out Nearly Half the World's Product.

Thomas Beard, arriving by the Mayflower in 1629, was the first shoemaker to come from England to America. He settled at Salem, Mass.

More than $250,000,000 is now invested in American shoemaking and more than 200,000 wage earners are employed.

Before 1850 practically every shoemaking process was a hand process. Lynn, Mass., with over 100 factories, is the leading shoe city of the world.

Of the world's boots and shoes more than 47 per cent are made in Massachusetts.

John Brooks Nichols of Lynn adapted the Howe sewing machine to sew the uppers of shoes in 1851, and this was the first important step in the application of machinery to shoemaking.

William F. Trowbridge at Peltonville, now a part of Marlborough, Mass., applied horsepower to the shoemaking machinery of 1855. Steam and water power came later.

The poet Whittier was a shoemaker in his youth. Henry Wilson, eighteenth vice president of the United States, was "the Natick cobbler" and was always proud of his shoemaking days.

Ebenezer Breed of Lynn is credited with securing by personal influence the first protective tariff on shoes. He was a merchant of Revolutionary times.

August Destouy, a New York mechanic, invented in 1862 the first curved needle to sew turn shoes.—From "A Primer of Boots and Shoes," Compiled by Daniel S. Knowlton.

The Myrtle Warbler.

The myrtle warbler breeds in the northern and eastern parts of the United States, but migrates through every woodland path and is so numerous that it is familiar to every observer. More than three-fourths of its food consists of insects, practically all of which are harmful. The bird is small, nimble and successfully attacks insects too minute to be prey for larger birds. These insects are its chief items of food.

Every day has its advertising opportunities and every merchant should know the opportunity when it comes to him.

SHIP OWNERS PROTESTING

Washington, Aug. 22.—President Wilson is confronted with formidable opposition in his effort to pass legislation for the government acquisition of ships to be owned and operated by a corporation controlled by government ownership of a majority of its stock. Ship owners are protesting violently against the policy of the government entering this field and many members of congress fear complications with the belligerents if the United States attempts to carry out a band of war.

WOMEN BARRED

Cincinnati, Aug. 22.—The Cincinnati boxing commission, which is appointed by the mayor, formally announced that women would be barred as spectators at all prizefights or sparring contests in this city in the future.

Cleveland, Aug. 22.—Lieutenant John Abernathy, a well known police official, is near death from burns received while rescuing a woman from her blazing home.

Montreal Churches.

Montreal is very religious. Men kneel on the steps outside the churches. With two galleries all around, Notre Dame will seat 10,000 people, and at times thousands stand. In the old church of Bonsecours lamps in the form of ships are hung. Some are ancient galleasses, some brigantines, some modern screw steamboats with proper boats hung to their davits.—New York World.

Experience.

"We learn by experience," said the ready made philosopher.

"That's true," remarked Mr. Growcher. "We get a lot of information from experience, but it doesn't seem to help. What's the good of knowing what the weather was day before yesterday?"—Washington Star.

Unwarranted Burdens

It is reported by leading newspapers that sugar has gone to ten cents per pound. This is a pretty high price to pay for sugar when we feel that there is no honest cause for it.

If the American people felt that the rise had been due to the law of supply and demand they could most certainly bear the burden with a great deal more cheer, but feeling as we do that a few men, who have the money, opportunity and unholy audacity to control the price of sugar are filling their own coffers at the expense of the needy and unfortunate, makes us somewhat restive. We readily realize that we must help bear the burden of the war in Europe as well as the rest of the world—we must help pay the debt sooner or later, but there is certainly no just cause for such an early beginning. We have just as much sugar at our disposal as we had before the war began and it is the belief of the entire American people that any advance in the price of food stuff has been made arbitrarily and without warrant. The men who have accomplished this would hardly be guilty of taking a pistol and stopping their neighbors on the street and relieving them of their hard-earned cash. They have been taught better; 300 to 500 years ago their ancestors would perhaps have done so with very little condemnation from the community. Brigandy was once a fairly honorable profession—speculation in food stuff at the expense of the poor, is at the present time respectable, especially as long as the man can keep out of jail and get the money. But it does seem there is not a great deal of difference between the man who uses the power of money to rob his neighbor and the man who takes his substance by force of firearms. The good substantial men of the United States are desperately afraid of socialism, but the highly organized state of our society and the interdependency of each upon the other, and one community and one section upon the other, is making it necessary that the control of the necessities of life, as well as the comforts and even luxuries, should not be left within the hands of a few to dispense at their pleasure to those who must have them. We do not want socialism as we understand it, but it does not take a very keen discernment to see that the people are not going to stand for the present method of distributing the produce of their own toil. They will change the system. The railroads of the United States imposed upon the people year after year and, it is said, ruled our State Legislature and had even a mighty influence in our National Congress, but the time came when public sentiment started an opposition to the railroad's domination and we see already how far within the last ten or twelve years they have swung the pendulum in the opposite direction. Presidents of railroads no longer publicly curse the people, but with uplifted palms are asking that they be granted a square deal. It is the story of the "unjust steward." The people will remedy the present autocratic power of the money barons and how far they will swing the pendulum in the other direction no one at the present day is able to foretell, but it is coming sure.

ACROSS THE SEA.

Across the sea I heard the groans
Of nations in the intervals
bones
Cried out in torture, crushed by
thrones,
And sucked by priestly cannibals.
I dreamed of Freedom slowly gained
By martyr meekness, patience,
faith,
And lo, an athlete grimly stained,
With corded muscles battle-stained,
Shouting it on the fields of death.

I turn me, awe-struck, from the sight,
Among the clamoring thousands
mute;
I only know that God is right,
And that the children of the light
Shall tread the darkness under foot
I know the pent fire heaves its crust,
That sultry skies the bolt will form
To smite them clear; that Nature
must
The balance of her powers adjust,
Though with the earthquake and
the storm.

God reigns, and let the earth rejoice!
I bow before His sterner plan,
Dumb are the organs of my choice;
He speaks in battle's stormy voice,
His praise is in the wrath of man.

Yet, surely as He lives, the day
Of peace He promised shall be ours,
To fold the flags of war, and lay
His sword and spear to rust away.
And sow its ghastly fields with
flowers.

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

NOTHING IS SUDDEN.

Events Seem So Only Because We Do Not Foresee Them.

The mind is often said to be illuminated by a sudden idea or the will to come to a sudden resolution. The suddenness is not only apparent to the on-looker; it is felt by the subject himself, when light seems to flash into his mind or his will to determine itself on an instant. He may talk of inspiration, meaning the unrelated act of some power outside himself. Just so we talk of the suddenness of lightning, the suddenness of an earthquake. We imagine earthquakes and lightning flashes as unrelated, independent happenings, and forget that every earthquake and every flash of lightning is the manifestation of an immutable and slowly working law and could, had men but knowledge enough, have been foretold from the ages.

Things are sudden only because we do not foresee them, and their suddenness is no inherent quality in themselves; it is lent them by our ignorance. The striking of a match may be as sudden as a flash of lightning and the fall of a pin as sudden as a pistol shot, but in normal conditions they do not make us "jump," because the conditions are the state of our nerves and the relative force of the impact upon our senses. A camel falls suddenly under the last straw, but it is the previous slow piling of all the other straws that is the cause of his broken back. Nothing is, in reality, more sudden than anything else; it is from ourselves, from our lack of comprehension and preparation, that the lightning, the earthquake and the pistol shot borrow their suddenness.—London Times.

WHEN ARABS WED

Quaint Ceremonies Mark the Long Drawn Out Festivities.

WEEKS OF FEAST AND FUN.

And at the End the Bridegroom, if He Be Lucky, Escapes Without Having Received a Beating at the Hands of the Friends He Has Entertained.

Arab weddings begin on Monday—that is to say, the first preparation commences on that day, when the bridegroom sends to the house of the bride the canopy under which she will walk in state on the following Thursday to his home. Along with this, if he is rich, he sends her a sack full of leaves of the henna plant, so much in use among the Arab women for toilet purposes; also two or three lambs, much oil and grain—in fact, everything necessary for the marriage feast for the women, which takes place in the bride's house. Musicians playing the tantom and the zummara (pipist) accompany the gifts.

Then a quaint ceremony takes place. The bride, covered with a rich silk barracan, and held by two women attendants, who grasp her firmly on either side of the waist, advances stiffly and solemnly, preceded by a third, who walks backward, holding a looking glass in front of the bride's face so that she must gaze into it as she walks. When she reaches the sack of henna, still with the utmost solemnity she sits down upon it seven times in succession to bring good fortune to her future home. This is a very ancient custom, never omitted on the Monday.

On Tuesday, the henna leaves having been crushed by the women, the paste is put on the head of the bride and a little on her hands. Then she remains seated while her women and girl friends gather round her. Each in turn places her hand on the bride's head, extolling her many virtues, saying how charitable she has been, how generous, that she has given oil and bread and clothes to the poor, etc. Whether true or not is of the least importance.

On Wednesday evening her hands are covered with henna, the whole of the palms and the back of the hand as far as the knuckles, so that they look almost black. The feet are treated in the same way, the whole of the soles, and the rest of the foot in the shape of a shoe.

Thursday is the great day. Now, after these ceremonies, after all sorts of preparations and much feasting with her friends, the actual marriage day arrives. In the morning the bride is perfumed with rich, strange oriental scents. At 6 o'clock in the evening she is taken in procession under the canopy to the house of the bridegroom.

Before entering the room where she will be attired for the marriage she stops outside the door to throw and break an egg against the top of the lintel. As soon as she gets inside the room she breaks a jar of water, both old customs, to bring good luck. The women dress her in fine silk clothes, with many gold ornaments and a rich silk barracan, all provided by the bridegroom. As a matter of fact, only two or three of the rich gold bracelets and so on are given, the rest being hired by the bridegroom for the occasion.

The bride is then left seated in the room covered with a great piece of silk or cloth all over her and hiding her entirely from view. By this time her women and girl friends have all arrived and are feasting and rejoicing in one of the rooms. Now the bridegroom, who in the meantime has been to prayer in the mosque, comes to his house, accompanied by all his friends, singing and making merry. They all go into a separate room to feast, leaving the happy man to enter alone into the room where his shrouded wife awaits him. Each places a piece of sugar between the lips of the other as a symbol of the sweetness of the married life which lies before them, and the bridegroom offers his bride a gift of jewelry or gold coins. The guests remain till late in the night, very often till the next morning. Endless feasting and music entertain them, for the Arabs have an extraordinary capacity for enjoying both for hours and hours at a time.

For seven days afterward the bride, richly dressed, receives innumerable visits from her friends. Really this is the time of her life, and she makes the most of it. On the seventh day she offers them all yet once again a great feast. After another forty days they come once more to eat at her house. Then the wedding festivities are really at an end.

All these customs are in vogue also among the Bedouin Arabs, but they have others. For instance, the Bedouin bridegroom for seven days after the wedding enjoys himself, wandering through the gardens of the oasis, doing no work, always accompanied by a group of his friends. But on the seventh day he must keep a sharp lookout, for on that day his friends will try suddenly to play a trick on him. If he escapes them well and good. Then he can run to his house and be safe. If not, they snatch his clothes from him and beat him, which seems a poor return for the feasting and entertainment. But it is the custom. These people will not omit the smallest ceremony handed down to them by their forefathers. — "The New Tripoli, and What I Saw in the Hinterland," by Ethel Braun.

A TRIP INTO SPACE.

With a Peep at the Milky Way and Its Fiery Spiral Nebula.

If you could stand still and let the world glide from under you the most impressive characteristic of space would be its emptiness, its awful black silence, of which man knows about as much as the deep sea fish do of their ocean. As the sun went sailing away its planets would close in one by one until apparently consumed by the solar rays. Before you had passed through the orbit of Neptune the sun would look no larger than an arc light. Fainter and fainter, deprived bit by bit of its dominance, it would finally fade into a pitiful spark. In spite of your tenfold efforts to keep that glinting point clear of its fellows, it would at last melt into the multitude of soft lights that make up the Milky way, and henceforth, seek as you might, you could never distinguish your sun again. Lost in the Milky way, it would be as futile to try to find it as to find a certain grain of dust which you had noticed settling on a country road.

Then drifting spitlike out into inky nothingness you would be surrounded by myriads of brilliant lights. Soon they would impress you with this startling fact: The universe of stars is arranged like a mighty world. The Milky way encircles the skies very much as the equator does this earth, and since life is most abundant in the south so the stars grow thickest about the Milky way. Let the eye travel away toward the imaginary north and south poles, and not only do the stars thin out, but entirely new forms of star life make their appearance.

Through the telescope they are nothing more than filmy patches of light; to the cameras and spectroscopes of observatories they become the most amazing and frightful spectacles of all nature. They show themselves then to be stupendous whirlpools of fire, inconceivable in magnitude, thousands of "light years" away (light traveling 185,000 miles a second), where whole systems of suns are being slowly evolved. We call them "spiral nebula," but to describe them we need the tongue of God himself. They seem to be measureless cauldrons, where his hand stirs cosmic dust until new suns rise and float off in flaming bubbles. They are so unthinkably gigantic that there is no perceptible motion to them. Already the cameras have recorded several hundred thousand in every stage of condensation, presenting an undeniable challenge, perhaps an answer, to those who would solve the riddle of the universe.—Maxwell Parry in Chicago Herald.

Ships and Waves.

When the waves of the ocean are one-half the length of the ship and one-twentieth of the length in height the stress upon the ship itself is very little increased above that in smooth water. But when the waves are of the same length as the ship or one and one-half times its length the stresses are considerable higher than when the ship is in smooth water; hence, in view of the fact that waves are seldom over 500 feet long, the maximum bending moments which come upon a ship 900 feet long are much less than those which come upon one 500 feet long.—Chicago News.

Improving the Milk's Quality.

A certain Glasgow milkman was suspected of using the pump handle rather too much before starting out with his milk delivery. The other day as he was standing serving customers in a busy side street a man passing nudged him and whispered: "Look out; the sanitary inspector is coming round the corner." Turning off the crank, he rushed for his cream barrel and, filling a huge can from it, opened the milk can and emptied it in. The "sanitary" did not come, but the wife of the "tipster" got a splendid supply of rich creamy milk that morning.—London Tatler.

Giving Proper Credit.

Two Philadelphians were talking of the fortunes of a third denizen of that city when one said:

"His first lucky strike was in eggs. He bought 10,000 dozen at a low figure, put them in cold storage and sold them at a profit of more than 300 per cent. That was the cornerstone of his great fortune."

"Ah!" exclaimed the other. "Then the hens laid it!"—Harper's Magazine.

War Getting to Be Impossible; Too Terrible to Last Long

By Rev. JOHN POLLOCK, Pastor St. Enoch's Church, Belfast, Ireland

CERTAINLY the map of Europe will be changed as a result of war. Just how it is impossible to foretell. "I AM SURE IT WILL BE THE LAST GREAT WAR." War is getting to be an impossibility. The instruments of war have reached such a state of efficiency that nearly all the men of both armies—victor and vanquished—will be killed in the battle.

THIS WAR, AS YOUR GENERAL MILES PROPHESED, WILL BE THE LAST FOR ANOTHER, A BIGGER REASON. IT WILL BE SO TERRIBLE, SO HORRIBLE, SO AWFUL THAT THE WORLD'S CONSCIENCE WILL BE ROUSED TO A POINT THAT WILL NEVER PERMIT ITS REPETITION OR ANYTHING LIKE IT. ONE HAS ONLY TO TAKE A CASUAL SURVEY OF THE PROBABILITIES TO REALIZE HOW AWFUL IT WILL BE. ENGLAND'S MILLIONS MAY STARVE BECAUSE HER FOOD SUPPLY MAY BE SHUT OFF. SHE CANNOT FEED HERSELF. HER FACILITIES UNDER BLOCKADE MAY LAST ONLY A WEEK; CERTAINLY NOT MORE THAN A MONTH.

World's workers will be killed in numbers never before conceived of in warfare; business must suspend; property will be devastated, and so the horrors will pile up. And what will the war be about? There is practically nothing for any country to gain. It is simply a question of racial jealousies finding expression. I BELIEVE THE WAR WILL BE TOO TERRIBLE TO LAST LONG, though as to actual time I could not hazard even a guess.

LEVY PLANNED TO BUILD FAYETTE ROADS

COMMISSIONERS TO CALL AN ELECTION

Question of Raising Funds for Rebuilding Fayette's Disappearing Highways is to be Submitted to Voters Unless Present Plans Are Changed.

Unless present plans are changed, the County Commissioners, Harry F. Brown, Edwin Weaver and Louis Perrill, will soon adopt a resolution calling an election to vote upon the question of issuing several hundred thousand dollars in bonds, or to decide the question of levying a special assessment for the improvement of the highways of Fayette county.

Their determination has been reached after appeals from many citizens for radical improvement of the county's highways, and it is planned to submit the question to a vote of the people at the regular election this fall, and if the voters favor the levying of a special tax of about 2 mills, this will be done, and the amount raised each year for a period of perhaps five years, would reach $80,000

yearly, or about $400,000 for the five years, and divide the levy so that it would not work an exceptional hardship upon the taxpayers.

Many appeals for relief have been made to the commissioners, as it has become more and more evident that, with the constant wear and tear upon the pikes they were giving way at a much greater rate than the improvements have been building them up, and each winter has witnessed a worse condition of the pikes than the preceding year.

Efforts to keep the pikes repaired as rapidly as they have been deteriorating have proven of no avail, and those who have been keeping a close watch on the rapidly disappearing good roads in Fayette county have reached the conclusion that something must be done at once, and that heavy expense is necessary to lift Fayette county out of the mud that is becoming more and more a drawback to Fayette roads.

After discussing the conditions, and going into them thoroughly, the commissioners have decided that some action is necessary, and within a short time a resolution calling for an election on the question of road improvement, probably will be passed and the question will then go to the voters of the county for their approval or rejection.

In view of the highway conditions, it is more than probable that the voters will not look with disfavor upon the proposition.

GENERAL EXODUS FOLLOWS FAIR END

With the end of the annual fair, the midway attractions and privilege men generally, joined the horsemen in moving to some other fair grounds.

Wagons were kept busy removing the baggage to the various depots, and many of the midway attractions found the fair very unprofitable this week, owing to the rain scattering the crowds Thursday afternoon and preventing the usual attendance Friday.

CONFERENCE PLANS NOW WELL UNDER WAY

Rev. F. E. Ross was in Columbus Friday, conferring with Bishop Wilbur P. Thirkield, Dr. W. D. Cherington, of the Chillicothe district; Dr. A. H. Norcross, of the Zanesville district; Dr. J. C. The program will be in the hands of the printer within a few days, and final arrangements will be completed within a short time.

A number of the most eminent men in Methodism will be in attendance at the conference. Bishop Thirkield will preside over the conference.

IMMENSE CROWD ENJOYS THE CONCERT

The Washington band was greeted by a crowd of several thousand persons when an open air concert was given on the court house lawn Friday night, and time after time the large crowd applauded the splendid music rendered.

A number of new pieces rendered met with the hearty approval of the big crowd, and the old time favorites were heartily applauded.

Ralph Ott, the whistler, again pleased the audience with his clever work.

BEST RACING OF FAIR WAS THAT OF YESTERDAY

Crowd Delighted With the Sport Which Included Part of Thursday's Program—Dangerous Spill Occurs in Fourth Heat of 2:12 Pace, But Drivers and Horses Escape Without Serious Injuries.

The best racing at the local fair occurred Friday afternoon, and although the crowd was materially reduced by the rains of Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, yet a large number witnessed the sport.

The track was in good condition, with the exception of small patches, which were infrequently used.

The Thursday afternoon card carried over was completed in good time, with weather conditions almost ideal.

A sensational spill occurred in the fourth heat of the 2:12 pace when the racers were dashing down the back stretch, Teddy Strathmore stepping into the wheel of the Minnie Burns bike and falling headlong, hurling the driver, Drake, of Sabina, entirely over the animal's head. Drake fell heavily upon his shoulder but was not seriously hurt. The horse was not badly injured.

Hot Ball, with Roy Craig driving, was trailing the Strathmore horse and struck the wrecked sulky. Craig was hurled into the air and nearly struck the fence when he fell, while Hot

The family has been having considerable domestic trouble, and it is not the first time that the complainant has been before the police, following some family difficulty.

C. H. & D. BUYS ADDITIONAL CARS

New York, August 22.—The Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton has ordered 1,000 box cars from the Mount Vernon Car company and 1000 gondola cars from the Cambria Steel Company. It is understood, however, that these orders are contingent upon new financing which the road is contemplating being put through before October 1.

The above, coupled with notice of a recent order for $1,000,000 worth of new locomotives for the road, indicates that, notwithstanding the fact that the road is in the hands of receivers, there is a bright future before it.

The 2,000 cars and some 35 new engines will place the road in position to handle an increased amount of freight.

It is possible that the local branch will be used extensively for transferring coal from the states across the river to the lakes. Following the completion of the new C. & O. branch much of the coal traffic may be turned over that road.

FIFTY YEARS AGO AND PRICES TODAY

Through the courtesy of H. H. Johnston, of this city, The Democrat is enabled to present a comparison of the prices of dry goods today with those of 1864, just fifty years ago. If prices are high today owing to the war in Europe, it can readily be seen what they would be if we were so unfortunate as to have war at home.

The first column represents the wholesale price, per yard, in 1864; the second column is the retail price, per yard, today:

	1864	Today
Prints	50	.06...
Ginghams	.48 1/2	.08 1-3
Ticks	.72 1/2	.22 1/2
Canton Flannel	.75	8 to 12 1/2
Brown Shirtings	.54	.12 1/2
Brown sheetings	.72 1/2	.10
Blea. Cottons	.77 1/2	.11
Sheetings, etc.	$1.60	.32

Fifty years ago the wholesale price of spool cotton was $2.00 per dozen.

CARRYING AN UMBRELLA.

Don't Hold It Before Your Face in a Crowded Street.

"There are a great many persons injured on windy, rainy nights because they hold their umbrellas down in order to protect their faces from the driving rain," explained an ambulance surgeon. "In their desire to protect themselves from the rain they place themselves in grave danger of being struck and run over by surface cars, automobiles and other vehicles."

"If you wish proof of my assertion just stand in a doorway some night where you are protected from the rain and where you are in a position to see an expanse of thoroughfare which all kinds of vehicles use. You will be surprised at the large number of persons you will notice crossing the thoroughfare with their umbrellas held down so far that it is impossible for them to see anything approaching. They seem oblivious of danger, and a spectator would suppose from their actions that there was not the remotest chance of an accident occurring."

"It is a fact that many pedestrians are injured on windy, rainy nights. With their umbrellas pulled down so that it is impossible to see ahead or to the sides, the pedestrians walk in front of vehicles and are knocked down and injured before they realize what has happened."—New York Sun.

Failed.

Billy Miller says a friend of his has been trying for two months to sell his automobile.

"But he couldn't," reports the veracious Mr. Miller. "He cut the price down to almost nothing and didn't get a bite. So the other day he got desperate and put this advertisement in the paper."

"I've rented a ten acre field opposite my house. In that field I shall place the car I have been trying to sell. The first man to that car after 6 o'clock tomorrow morning may have it."

"And what happened?" you ask Mr. Miller. "Well," says the young man, "my friend woke up early the next morning and looked out, and there in the field were four other cars."—Herbert Corey in New York Globe.

The Thieving Ear of Corn.

Twelve ears of corn will plant an acre. If one of the planted ears happens to be "no good" there is a twelfth of an acre missing. An acre of corn may be worth $30 to $40, so to discover a thieving ear is worth from $2.50 to $3.50. One can pick out the ears of poor germination at slight cost if he will test his corn before he becomes rushed with spring work. And while about it reject the ears that, although germinating, do not send up strong, vigorous stalks. Lusty, vigorous young things grow surest into profit, whether they be pigs, lambs, colts or cornstalks.—Breeder's Gazette.

Yes, He Was All Right. George R. Sims' account of forgetting his own address and having to look it up in the telephone directory was capped by a friend of mine, says a writer in the London Sphere, who told a story of a man trying to tell him from what he had been suffering. "I have been very ill," he said, "with—with-with"—and could get no further. And then suddenly it came to him, "with loss of memory. But," he added, "I'm all right now."

Nothing Left.

"Have you," asked the judge of a recently convicted man, "anything to offer the court before sentence is passed?"

"No, your honor," replied the prisoner. "My lawyer took my last farthing."—London Tit-Bits.

Storm Center.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown."

"In a republic it is the president's private secretary who acquires the insomnia."—Kansas City Journal.

Effective Covering.

"When the train bandit was captured he was covered with confusion?" "No, sir; with the train crew's revolvers."—Baltimore American.

NATIVE INNS IN JAPAN.

Where You Shed Your Shoes Before Going to Your Room.

The entrance to native inns in Japan is most always a roofed vestibule with a well trodden earthen floor backed by a raised platform about twenty inches high, forming at once a seat and the outer extension of the first floor.

A scattered line of shoes, sandals and geta belonging to the guests usually lie along it, and at one side is a cupboard where umbrellas and footgear are deposited. A big drop octagon clock on the wall, a low desk, a hibachi and a pile of cushions generally complete the office equipment.

The traveler's jinrikī customarily deposits him in the vestibule, at the edge of the platform, beneath the overhang of the roof. Shouts of "O Kyaku san" (honorable visitor) apprise the master and the maids that a guest is arriving and all hurry forward to receive him, uttering cries of welcome and bowing glossy black heads to the floor.

As the traveler sits on the platform a servant removes his shoes and others divest him of his wraps. Shoes are seldom cleaned, and if they be wet or muddy they are left untouched. Habitual frequenters of inns often provide themselves with foot coverings to slip over shoes and thus be able to wear them to the apartment. Without them one must don the heelless slippers furnished or go to one's room unshod.—Kansas City Times.

DOPED AUTOMOBILES.

Acid Sometimes Used to Put Ginger in Second Hand Cars.

"If you are intending to buy a second hand automobile from a stranger or any one but a reputable dealer, keep an eye open to see that the car is not 'doped,'" said H. Clifford Brokaw, principal of the automobile school of the West Side Young Men's Christian association. "Not long ago a friend told me he had a chance to buy a very good car at a low price. He said he knew it was a good car because it could climb the highest hills on high gear. It could almost jump over a house, he said.

"An investigation showed that the car was old, but that previous to the trial trip it had been doped with picric acid. Picric acid, mixed with gasoline, will give a motor a greatly increased power. A wornout motor can be made to do wonderful stunts by the use of proper proportions of picric acid. Chloroform will have the same effect. Picric acid, however, will ruin the cylinders of the best motor. It will give the car much greater power when first used, but I would not care to buy an automobile in which it had been used."—New York Times.

"Then step over there with Napoleon, Alexander, Hannibal, Newton, Charlemagne, Kant, Pope, William Pitt and William of Orange." "What's the matter with them, your honor?" "Matter enough. They are all defectives. They've failed to pass our tests."—Life.

FOR OPEN DOOR POLICY IN CHINA

Senator Gallinger's Resolution Creates a Sensation.

WILL LIKELY BE SUPPRESSED

Administration Determined to Keep Out of the Far Eastern Question Raised by Japan Against Germany as Long as Possible—Taking of Kiauchau Not a Before-Breakfast Proposition.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire created a sensation by introducing a joint resolution for the "open door policy" in China and proclaiming that the United States would not view with indifference any departure from it. He asked that his resolution be referred to the foreign relations committee. While there is considerable sentiment in support of it, even in the committee, it is the opinion of the senate leaders that the influence of the president and Secretary Bryan will be exerted toward suppressing it at this time.

Though officials declined to admit

the receipt of an inquiry from China suggesting that the United States serve as intermediary for the transfer of Kiauchau from Germany to China, it was evident that there is very little likelihood of such a proposal being favorably accepted if made. The administration is determined to keep out of the far eastern question raised by Japan against Germany as long as possible, and certainly will not enter in on the basis of such a proposal as that emanating from China. The only possible chance of its being accepted, it was declared, would be in the event that Japan and Great Britain and Germany joined in a request that the United States act. Such a request is considered unlikely.

It became known that Japan will not accept such a suggestion as that from Peking. Japan will require from Germany a "yes" or "no" reply to its ultimatum of last Sunday and no other form of response will be accepted or even considered. It is expected that Germany probably will hand her reply to the Japanese charge d'affaires in Berlin at the very last minute.

It was pointed out here that the taking of Kiauchau by Japan will not be such a simple matter as had been supposed. While the German garrison is not more than 5,000 men, the city and port of Tsingtau are so strongly fortified that a small force could easily hold them against a vastly superior force for a long time.

Indorses Action of Progressive Steering Committee.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., Aug. 22.—The Bull Moose committee of twenty-one, after turning down Harvey D. Hinman in New York city, came down here to get Colonel Roosevelt's approval. They got it.

The members of the Progressive steering committee agreed on a straight Progressive ticket in the state as far as possible, and at least for the head of the ticket. Colonel Roosevelt agreed with them on that and said in a belligerent fashion that he would carry the battle from one end of the state to the other.

Theodore Douglas Robinson, state chairman, and William H. Hotchkiss accompanied the members of the committee to Oyster Bay.

"Whatever action these gentlemen take," said the colonel, "I stand ready to back it up. I will back the Progressive ticket and will fight for it from one end of the state to the other. The Republican convention at Saratoga showed that the Progressive ticket is the only one for which decent citizens can honestly vote. I will fight for this party in every section of the state and I'm getting better all the time. I never felt better in my life."

EATING PASTY POI.

A Painful Experience With the Popular Food of Hawaii.

The national food of Hawaii is "poi." It is to them what rice is to the Chinese, frijoles to the Mexicans, blubber to the Eskimos. The first day I was there some friends of mine—or I had thought they were friends—invited me into eating some of it.

"It's made out of taro root," they explained. "They take an iron that looks like a pestle, put the roots on a holed out board about the size of a table leaf and pound it up. It is their staff of life. Have some."

With that the person with whom I had been friendly passed me a dish of poi. It looked like billboard paste—the same color, the same consistency and, from as near as I could politely get my nose, the same smell.

"They eat it with their forefingers," he explained, "and it is known as one finger or two finger poi according to how thick it is. This is two finger poi, so you will have to dip two fingers in and quickly put them well back into your mouth. Just go ahead and help yourself."

I wanted to make a bit surer what I was eating and started to take a tiny taste, but he saw the motion and a line of pain ran across his face that I should doubt the food he had set out for me. "We have plenty of it," he said cordially, holding out the bowl.

With that I thrust my two fingers in, stirred them around until the poi was clinging to them and, bending over, thrust them into my mouth—well back. Immediately I knew that I had made a mistake; the rosy stuff got on to my tongue and wouldn't come off. The moment it touched my tongue I knew that it not only looked like billboard paste and smelled like it, but that it tasted like a pot that had been left over from yesterday. For an hour I tried to worry it off my tongue and all afternoon I could taste it lurking in my mouth.—Homer Croy in Leslie's.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.

Some of the Rewards That Come to Those Who Follow It.

I am bound to praise the simple life because I have lived it and found it good. * * * I love a small house, plain clothes, simple living. Many persons know the luxury of a skin bath, plunge in the pool or the wave, hampered by clothing. That is the simple life—direct and immediate contact with things, life with the false wrappings torn away—the fine house, the fine equipage, the expensive habits all cut off. How free one feels, how good the elements taste, how close one gets to them, how they fit one's body and soul! To see the fire that warms you or, better yet, to cut the wood that feeds the fire that warms you; to see the spring where the water bubbles up that shakes your thirst and to dip your pall into it; to see the beams that are the stay of your four walls and the timbers that uphold the roof that shelters you; to be in direct and personal contact with the sources of your material life; to want no extra shields; to find the air and the water exhilarating; to be refreshed by a morning walk or an evening saunter; to find a quest of wild berries more satisfying than a gift of tropic fruit; to be thrilled by the stars at night; to be elated over a bird's nest—these are some rewards of the simple life.—John Burroughs. Quoted in "Our John Burroughs," by Clara Barrus.

Indictments Anticipated In Probes Into High Prices.

GRAND JURIES SOON TO REPORT

Offenders in Brooklyn, Washington, Chicago and Three Other Cities Expected to Be Landed in Jail—Meat Packers Said to Be Exporting While Claiming a Shortage—Rise in the Price of Sugar.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Although the department of justice dragnet to catch conspirators who have raised foodstuff prices and given the cost of living a boost has not been drawn in, there are strong indications that at least six grand juries in as many different localities soon will be asked to return indictments against dealers alleged to be in conspiracy to violate the Sherman anti-trust act.

Juries are almost certain to be asked for indictments in Washington, Chicago, Brooklyn and three other cities, the names of which the department at present will not reveal. In Chicago the effort to jail offenders will be made immediately.

Despite the unwillingness of officials to discuss the investigations at the present time, it leaked out that information has been obtained concerning beef packers in Chicago which may result in prosecutions. Department of justice agents, it was said, have discovered that packers are shipping large quantities of meat across the Canadian border. At the same time the prices on meats are advancing.

Department officials are at a loss to explain how the packers can export meat and still plead there is a shortage. It is understood here that the packers have not taken kindly to the investigation. The plan adopted has been to look into the affairs of branch houses, and the packers have objected and insisted that the investigations be made at headquarters.

The rise in the price of sugar has led to a renewed interest among department officials in the investigation of the supposed connection between the so-called sugar trust and the beet sugar interests.

The United States department of agriculture was held responsible for a shortage of beef and the consequent rise in meat prices by F. W. Lyman, representing a Chicago packing house. He said that the department of agriculture on Aug. 1 warned the farmers to hold their grain because there was a lack of shipping facilities, due to the war abroad. The farmers, he declared, assumed the same lack of means of transportation would apply to cattle as well, and they failed to send the normal amount of beef to the markets.

LAST BLESSING

Rome, Aug. 22.—A few hours before his death the pope was asked to bestow his blessing upon Father Verniz, head of the Jesuit order, who was then dying. The pontiff complied, saying "This is the last blessing we shall give."

MILLION MEN ARE AFFECTED

Washington, Aug. 22.—Instructions have been sent to James W. Gerard, ambassador to Germany, and American consular officers in that country to notify the state department at once whether the European war will prevent the shipment of dye stuffs to the United States. The matter is of vital importance to the woolen, cotton, silk, leather and other industries in this country that use colors, as the present supply is only sufficient to keep such factories going for about sixty days. When the present supply is exhausted it is estimated that at least a million men will be thrown out of employment. For this reason every effort will be made to relieve the situation so as to get German dye stuffs. Ambassador Gerard has been asked to notify the state department whether Germany has placed an embargo on shipment of dye stuffs, and if not, whether the Rhine is open for transportation. If it is found that no embargo has been placed on shipments of dye stuffs, officials will be sent abroad to arrange for shipments.

SPORT LETTER

Cincinnati August 19, 1914.
Never before in the history of the National League has there been such a ruthless upsetting of dope in connection with the prospects and standings of teams as during the present season the old saying of "the first shall be last and the last first"
has been demonstrated a number of times since the season opened, and promises to secure a few more endorsements before the contenders for the world's series are finally decided upon. Take the Reds, for instance, they have been in every position in the race several times during the past four months, and still are promising their followers that they will finish among the first four. New York has been up in front for some time—longer than any other team has held the lead so far this season—but judging by the manner in which the Bostons are going at present, the reign of the Giants as leaders is not for long. And those same Bostons, from a bad last have moved up to within striking distance of first place within five weeks. Verily, the form operators are having severe attacks of the Willies these days, for the figures, as prognosticators, are of the brand of Ananias.

Manager Herzog is rapidly getting his team working along lines that mean much for auspicious start next season. The latest switch, that of placing Von Kolnitz at third base in place of Bert Niehoff, has worked splendidly so far, the young South-erner showing marked aptitude as a fielder and developing consistent batting strength through regular work.
The infield, as now constituted, would prove a gratifying combination to Kaiser Wilhelm, with Mollwitz, Groh, Herzog and Von Kolnitz on the roster. It is likely that this line-up will continue next season, unless a new first baseman, coming from the Virginia league, and a new third baseman, snared in the International league, should prove wonders. It is likely that Herzog will stand pat with the outfield material he has in view for the next campaign, the talent in this department including Daniels, Trombley, Moran and Miller, all of whom have made good this season, and "Red" Killifer, now with Minneapolis and admitted to be the best outfielder in the American Association from every point of view.
But one real worry obsesses Manager Herzog for next season, and that is his pitching staff. However, there is a string of youngsters coming from the bushes that promises to add the touch to the hurling corps that will place at least five first-class men at the disposal of Herzog when the season of 1915 is started on its
ay. Several of these youngsters

likely that they will be seen during
the next three Sunday contests,
which are apportioned as follows:
Sunday, August 23, New York; Sun-
day, August 30, Philadelphia; Sunday, Sept. 6, St. Louis. One high
class left-hander and one first rate
ing staff right where it belongs—
and it is reasonable to suppose that
both these wants will be filled before the present season closes.

Instead of being one of the last
cities of the United States to see the
latest things in automobiles this season, in accordance with these Arrangements have been completed
for holding the annual Cincinnati
automobile show in October, instead
The Cincinnati Automobile Dealers'
Association, which has been so successful in conducting the big local
shows for some years past, has selected the dates from October 3 to 10 for
this season's exhibit, and has engaged
the three big sections of Music Hall
for the display. It is promised that
special attractions at this show than
ever before were shown in the middle west, outside of Chicago.

It seems pretty well settled that
the Olympic games of 1916 will not
be held in Berlin, and that the United States will offer about the only
neutral ground in the world for those
contests. In accordance with those deductions the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce has started a movement to
bring the games to Cincinnati, provided the United States is chosen for
the contests. Cincinnati offers excellent advantages for a series of
sports of that kind embraced in the Olympiad, its location among hills being particularly attractive for the
running of the Marathon, which
promises to be the big event of the

Now they're picking Johnny Kil-
bane as the boy to trim Freddie Welsh, the little Englishman, who
recently won the world's light-weight
title from Willie Ritchie, the American champion. Of course, it is known that Kilbane fights at the
featherweight limit—128 pounds—
and is good and strong at that tonnage. But his admirers say that he can take on a little more weight—
say eight pounds—and not slow or handicap himself in any way. As the American light-weight limit of 133
pounds, and the next fight for the
light-weight championship will be
fought in America, the fighting game
in England, especially for little fellows, being dull during these war
times, Kilbane would be under no
serious handicap in meeting Welsh.
And if he does meet him, say the wise
ones, the light-weight championship
America.

Jupiter In Mythology.

In Roman mythology Jupiter was the
supreme deity, the head and front of
the whole system, god of the air and
king of the celestials. He was primarily a divinity of the sky and the
originator of all atmospheric changes
and weather conditions. His weapon
was the thunderbolt, and one of his
titles was Jupiter Tonans, thundering
Jupiter. Heavy or continuous rain
was attributed to Jupiter Pluvius,
rainy or rain sending Jupiter. When
the earth became parched with heat
and was in sore need of rain Romans
invoked the great God as "Jupiter Plu-
vius."

STRONG LINEUP

Team That Plays Here Sunday Will
be Remembered as Same That Defeated Washington in a 1 to 0 Game
Last Season. With the Addition of
a Few Leaguers—Has a Good Record This Year.

A letter to Manager Carl Noon of
the Athletics, from the manager of
the Tippecanoe City club, which is to
play here Sunday afternoon, contains the line-up of the visitors and
a little dope concerning their staff
and record for the present year. The Tippas have won eight games this season and among the defeated is the Dayton Lily Brews of no little amateur fame. On their line-up appears
the names of Catcher Bole, formerly
of the Ohio State League; Otey,
pitcher, with the Dayton Central
league team last year; Huckins, first
base, and Wentzel, short stop, both
formerly with the Southern league.
The rest of the team with one exception, played with the nine last year
when it defeated Washington in a
close 1 to 0 game.

The Tippecanoe City line-up follows: Bole, c; Schultz, p; Otey, p;
Huckins, 1b; Wells, 2b; Wentzel, ss;
Huffer, 3b; Huckins, lf; Walker, cf;
Jackson, rf; Henn and Vandever,
subs.

Ideas About Animals.

The path of the teacher of the blind
is beset with many difficulties, one of
the greatest being the task of convey-
ing to their mind some idea of the
size, shape and features of birds and
animals. In many cases, it is true,
models are used, but owing to their
small size they are, to say the least,
of doubtful advantage.

The ignorance of blind children is great, often grotesque. A teacher of
a class may find that a child does not
know whether a sheep or a cow is the
larger, or he may even find that a
hare has wings. However carefully
they are told that a small model of a cow is only one-fourth the size of the real animal, more often than not
they are unable to think of the animal as being any larger than the model and will stoop and describe something about the size of a kitten when
asked to indicate the size of a cow.
This arises from the fact that no
standard of size, form and texture—beyond those which they set up through
handling—can exist for those who have
never had the use of their eyes.

Even those who have had sight are
found to lose their standards unless
they are renewed from time to time
by actual contact. An instance of this
was noticed not long ago when a boy
of about twelve recovered his sight
after an operation and for several
days following went about in a state
of surprise and fear, for almost everything which he had not been in the habit of touching frequently differed
considerably in size from his recollections of seven years before. The size
of his parents alarmed him very much,
as he imagined they were much smaller.—Strand Magazine.

ENLIVENED THE PLAY.

Moving Picture Show.

"Where we went last night," said
a frequenter of moving picture shows,
"there was a scene in one of the films
showing a man and a girl, young lov-
ers, kissing. She was a pretty girl
and he was a fine, manly, young fellow, and of course everybody was
deeply interested in the picture. But
at the precise instant that the lovers'
lips met some man in the audience exploded with a gigantic sneeze, where-
at the whole house blew up with spontaneous hilarious laughter.

"In this picture scene there was a
third figure, that of a man who had
seen the lovers meeting and who when
he saw them kiss turned away from
them to smile. He was, to be sure,
smiling over the lovers; but as he look-
ed out on the house at this moment
with that smile on his face he seemed
like a real man smiling in appreciative
understanding of what had just happened in the audience. At the sight of
his smiling face the audience again
blew up. But, of course, the pictures
kept on moving all the time, and in
half a minute the audience had once
more settled down to look on again at
the pictures in the usual quiet."—New York Sun.

Edmund Gosse's Pen Portrait of the Poet Swinburne.
In the "Collected Essays of Edward Gosse" is an elaborate pen picture of Swinburne. "Of all the human beings
whom I have known," he says, "I think that Algernon Swinburne was
the most extraordinary." And here is
the characteristic way in which he begins to sketch that "singular being":
"He was short, with sloping shoulders, from which rose a long and slender neck, surmounted by a very large
head. The cranium seemed to be out
of all proportion to the rest of the structure. His spine was rigid, and,
though he often bowed the heaviness
of his head, "lasso papavero collo," he seemed never to bend his back. Except in consequence of a certain physical weakness, which probably may in more philosophical days come to be accounted for and palliated—except
when suffering from this external
cause, he seemed immune from all the
maladies that pursue mankind.

"He did not know fatigue; his agility
and brightness were almost mechanical. I never heard him complain of a headache or a toothache. He required
very little sleep, and occasionally when
I have parted from him in the evening
after saying good night he has simply
sat back in the deep sofa in his sitting room, his little feet close together, his arms against his side, folded in
his frock coat like a grasshopper in
its wing covers, and fallen asleep, apparently for the night, before I could
blow out the candles and steal forth
from the door.

"I am speaking, of course, of early
days; it was thus about 1875 that I
closely observed him. He was more
a hypertrophied intelligence than a
man. His vast brain seemed to weigh
down and give solidity to a frame
otherwise as light as thistledown, a
body almost as immaterial as that of
a fairy. In the streets he had the movements of a somnambulist, and of-
ten I have seen him passing like a ghost across the traffic of Holborn or
threading the pressure of carts east-
ward in Gray's Inn road without glanc-
ing to the left or the right, like some-

disease, requires a constitutional treatment.
Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surface of the system, thereby destroying the foundation

ROAD REPAIRING RECEIVES ATTENTION

The annual repair of the county highways is now in progress, and next week will be an unusually busy one in road working throughout the county.

To date Joseph Whiteside, of Madison county, has placed one and one-half miles of gravel upon the roadways in his township; O. A. Klever, in Paint, has distributed 1000 loads.

Next week the Bloomingburg and Danville road will receive attention, and the Mt. Sterling and Waterloo pikes, as well as a half score of other main roads in the county.

CHILD ATTACKED BY VICIOUS DOG

Little Myrtle Grimm, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grimm, Formerly of This County, Painfully Lacerated by Fangs of Vicious Shepherd Dog in Lancaster.

Myrtle, the little four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grimm formerly of this county, was attacked and shockingly injured by a vicious shepherd dog while the child was playing with the animal at the home of relatives in Lancaster.

The child had been fondling the brute when the dog suddenly turned and leaped upon the little tot, knocking her down and tearing at her tender flesh until it had inflicted long, ragged wounds across the face.

Medical attention was summoned and while the wounds were being dressed she became very ill, and turning to her mother she lipst: "Please mother, don't let them bury me in the ground."

The owner of the dog killed the brute and sent its head to Columbus for examination, fearing it might have been suffering from hydrophobia.

SOLDIERS COMING MONDAY MORNING

The city will resemble an armed camp Monday morning, until the 750 to 800 troops of the Fourth regiment march out of the city toward their final camp at Maple Grove.

The first troops will arrive early in the morning, and all will be here by 9:15 a. m. and a short time afterward will take up the march toward the first camp site between this city and Frankfort.

It will be an interesting sight, and one which will be watched by hundreds of local citizens. The baggage wagon train will be a feature of the mobilization here.

6,000 ATTEND THE LYNDON ANNUAL PICNIC

A crowd estimated at fully 6,000 persons attended the farmers' annual picnic in the Parrett grove at Lyndon, Thursday, and Governor Cox addressed the throngs, speaking upon live topics of the day, and topics of particular interest to farmers were discussed.

Governor Cox praised President Wilson for the manner in which he is meeting the present crisis caused by the European war. He also said that as commander-in-chief of the military forces of Ohio he would not give an Ohio regiment for all of the Mexican "greasers" in the world.

CHANGED CARS AND NORMAL CONDITION

Following is an excerpt from the police pickings of the Springfield Sun of Saturday:

"On his way from New Castle, Ind., to his home in Washington C. H., James Ward said he 'changed cars here and incidentally his normal condition. An officer found 'Jim' down and out and the court gave him $5 and costs for drunk and disorderly. The sentence was suspended and he was told to continue on his way."

NEGLECTED TRAPS FULL OF FLIES

Some of the fly traps displayed on the sidewalks have long since succeeded in imprisoning several quarts of flies, and the insects have died and their decaying remains fill the traps for several inches in depth, causing a very unsanitary condition to result from the poisonous and germ infected flies.

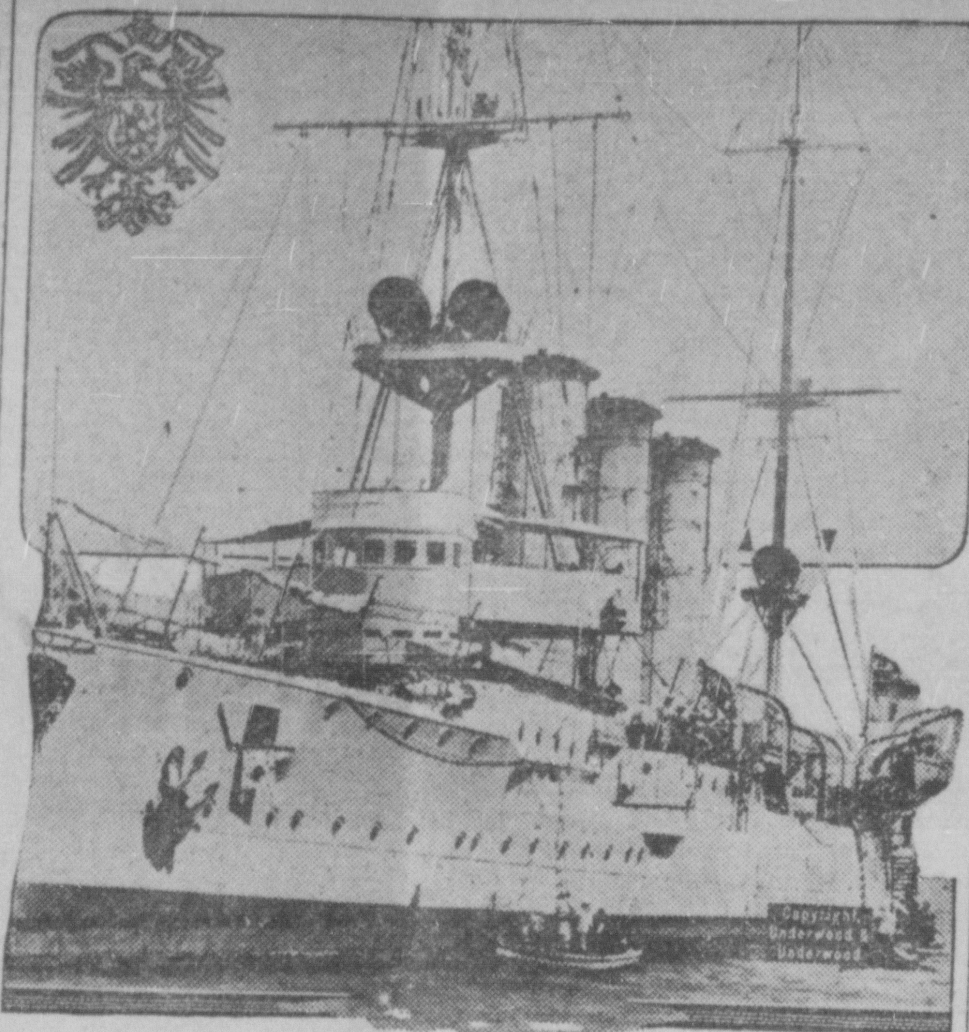

The traps have done good work, and with a little attention, will do more good work toward making the city flyless.

STRINGING PEARLS

TYING KNOTS AS A FINE ART.

The pearl stringers themselves call it a "trade." They are not the kind of people to talk about art. If they see anything of their work beyond the prosaic fact that "stringing" is a good employment it is only an indirect and somewhat vague appreciation of the delicate attraction of the pearls they handle.

Although not professing to be expert judges, I have never met a pearl stringer yet whose eye and taste were not trained to a fine perception of the form and color of the beamy, iridescent luster of the jewel of the shellfish. It would be as impossible for them to mistake an artificial pearl for a real one as it would be for a lapidary to begin to polish a piece of glass under the impression it was a diamond.

It is often said that the little known industry of pearl stringing is dying out, but this is not the fact. No machinery is yet invented to supersede the ten clever fingers of the practiced stringer. The industry is exclusive, too, and a business has often been passed on from mother to daughter, even from grandmother to grandchild. Drilling and mounting of pearls is quite a different branch of the industry.

Good light is one of the essential needs of the pearl stringer, especially when she is employed in making or repairing seed pearl ornaments. All the beads have to be arranged according to their size and then separately and most carefully sewed into place on their dainty framework. For instance, if the design is that of a flower or leaf the skill lies in graduating from the biggest pearl to the one that touches the extreme point. Some of these ornaments, by the way, are very old, for if they are carefully handled there is no reason why they should not be as joy, if not forever, at all events for as long as the handsome, antique pendants and pearl studded medals of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries that one still admires in the British museum.

Only the finest silk is used for stringing the finest pearls. Great beads, round and shiny, unmistakably artificial and with no more real luster than white marbles—with the exception of what are called Roman pearls, manufactured many years ago—may be allowed to hang together on catgut, but pearls must be threaded, pearl kissing pearl, on silken strands worthy of their shape and "skin."

Now the art of the stringer lies in the apparently simple manner of tying the knot that attaches the snap. Sometimes also she has to make a knot between bead and bead, a method that adds to the length of the necklace, but detracts from the beauty of the line of pearls. The knack of making this tiny knot will perhaps take a girl a year to master; the perfect hang of the beads, neither too loose nor too tight, depends on how it is made.

There is no needle fine enough for threading small seed pearls, so the stringer makes her own out of a piece of wire as thin as a hair. She arranges her pearls, if they are of different sizes, on a grooved board covered with billiard table cloth, any other material, such as green baize, being much too coarse. When she is making a tassel or loops, it is pretty to watch her hold her work at arm's length every few minutes, measuring its size and effect with her well trained eye. It is hardly necessary to strict integrity and unflinching care required in a pearl stringer. She is entrusted with great possessions, for the value of pearls is continually on the increase. There are some ladies who never trust their treasures out of their own houses, but arrange, through a jeweler, for a pearl stringer to call so many times a year to repair ornaments or restring necklaces.

The work of the pearl stringer is so little known, so quiet and dainty, that it is doubtful if one in a thousand women who stop to admire and covet as they pass show windows ever gives a thought to the patient fingers that have threaded the beautiful beads and tied the almost invisible, cunning knots that link them to their diamond clasps. The little band of stringers are very simple, but businesslike people in their humble workrooms—devotees of beauty, although they are unconscious of the fact, and true artists in the perfection of their work.—London Chronicle.

TACT AND A PLUMBER.

Masterly Inactivity at a Banquet in High Society.

Not so very long ago there was a dinner given in exclusive Washington society at which the most tactful person was undoubtedly a plumber in overalls.

A plumber was hastily called. He crawled under the table and soon had the fountain sending a delicate spray into the air. He was busy tightening the couplings of the temporary pipes under the table when the head butler, his mind relieved of a load of care when he saw the fountain playing, announced in the drawing room:

"Dinner is served."

Before the plumber knew what was happening the guests had entered the dining room, chairs were drawn up, and he suddenly found himself hemmed in by a wall in which trousers alternated with skirts.

It was a big round table, so he was safe from discovery from any shifting foot. He scratched his head and wondered what he should do. He looked carefully around. Neither to the right

nor to the left nor between any pair of feet was there sufficient space for him to wiggle through. The only way to get out would be to tap on some knee and—"Pardon me, please."

He didn't know much about the etiquette of formal dinner parties, but he had a hunch that that wouldn't make a hit. He decided that there was just one thing to do—stay where he was until the trousers and skirt wall departed. So there he sat while coffee after coffee was served, coffee sipped, cigarettes and cigars smoked, nothing to entertain him but a ground floor view of high society.

When the dinner was at last over and the guests had returned to the drawing room the plumber crawled forth.

The hostess had tarried for a moment to give a few directions to the head butler. She gasped with astonishment.

"The plumber explained. 'Sir,' said she, 'you are a gentleman.' Then to the head butler, 'James, give this man $10 for himself.' Then to the plumber, 'And please say nothing.'—New York Times.

Both Played the Game.

The head of the firm approached his son.

"Oh! It says in this Business Manual that one should always be careful when interviewing anybody to have one's back to the light. But I think the other fellow must have been up to that dodge. When we settled down at the finish he was sitting on the window sill," was the disconsolate reply.—London Answers.

Too Cheap.

"Majolica pitcher brings $655 in sale," read Mrs. Fann.

"Hub!" sneered Mr. Fann. "He can't be much of a player."—Buffalo Express.

Over Fifteen Thousand Factories in Ohio

Do you know what they are all making? Did you know that Ohio leads the country in the manufacture of carriages and wagons, of pottery and clay products, and a few other things? That it is second in automobiles?

What do you know about your state, in the lines of practical knowledge that every resident ought to know? It is impossible to remember much of the data that you read, of course, and you need your memory for things of immediate use in the task of earning your daily bread. Knowing where to find information and other matters, and having the means at your hand, is the important thing. That is what our OHIO ALMANAC has done for you. Men who know thoroughly the various departments of the history Ohio is making every day, have gathered the important facts together for you and put them into a book that is as concise as it is complete. The splendid index removes all possibility of tedium and delay in finding these facts.
